WITNESSES TELL OF HOME SCENES

J. H. Hendrix On Stand For Considerable Part Of Morning

When the case of Mrs. Esther McMahon vs. Mrs. M. Belle Emery, charged with the alienation of the affections of the former's husband, David M. McMahon, was resumed in county court this morning, J. H. Hendrix was still on the stand, testifying for the prosecution.

Mr. Hendrix was asked to relate incidents he had observed at the Emery home, concerning the relations of Mr. McMahon and Mrs. Emery and told of them having lunch together in the dining room, after which they would often turn out the lights, and he would see lights flash on in the front bedroom upstairs.

He told of Mr. McMahon's car having been parked near the Emery home all night long and of having seen Mr. McMahon leave at all hours of the night.

Several other witnesses, including the daughter and son-in-law of Mr. Hendrix, Mrs. David Clark and other neighbors were called to testify to occurrences they had seen about the Emery home relative to Mr. McMahon coming and going to and from the house.

Sunday Baseball Bill Faces Veto McSparren Claims

John A. McSparran Predicts Pinchot Will Never Sign Sunday Baseball Bill

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 1. — The Sunday baseball bill even if passed by the state legislature is doomed to be vetoed by Governor Gifford Pinchot in the opinion of John A. McSparran, state secretary of agriculture. The state official voiced this assertion before a conference of the Methodist Episcopal Social Union of Philadelphia.

"The Sabbath laws are not for legislatures or congress to repeal," McSparran told the Methodists. "They are laws of God and to contravene them would be to call down the displeasure of Almighty God on the state that attempted to defy him publicly. On next Monday it is only going to take two votes to decide whether a bill shall be passed in Harrisburg to declare the commercial business of baseball be allowed on Sunday.

"Of course the law isn't going to be changed this time. Thank God we have a governor who will veto it when it reaches him. But let it go through one house and it isn't long before we will have a governor who will sign it."

School Janitor Proves Self Hero As He Stages Thrilling Rescue

(International News Service)

CINCINNATI, O., May 1.—Attacked by a ferocious mountain lion, six-year-old Vivian Leichner was reported dying today.

The animal leaped on the girl in a setting as remote from jungle-lands as any place might be—in the auditorium of the Whittier school which she attended.

The child was saved from certain death by the bravery of the school janitor, William Hunter.

William Hardwood, a trainer, had the lion with two bear cubs in the school basement for the purpose of delivering a lecture on natural history.

Lion Leaps On Girl

Hunter said he had warned Vivian to stay away from the animals, but the woman trainer with Hardwood said they were harmless.

After the lion leaped on the girl and knocked her to the floor with one sweep of his powerful paw, Hunter grabbed the beast by the scruff of the neck. He held the animal high and shoved the girl from beneath until Hardwood came to the rescue.

Vivian was suffering a fractured skull. Her face was lacerated terribly.

After the attack, the trainer had taken the animals away, it was reported. A search was underway by police to question the trainers.

Mrs. Thomsen Is Sent To Hospital For Insane Today

Confessed Slayer Of Aged Spinster Is Ordered Held In Insane Hospital

FORMAL ORDER IS MADE BY JUDGE

(International News Service)

WILKES-BARRE, Pa., May 1.—In a formal order handed down here, President Judge W. S. McLean of the Luzerne county court today ordered Mrs. Frances Thomsen, confessed slayer of Minnie E. Dilley, wealthy, eccentric forty fort spinster, confined in the hospital for the insane at Retreat, Luzerne county.

With the order, the devious path which led the former Pittsburgh school teacher, a graduate of Wellesley college and mother of three children, from suspicion that Miss Dilley sought to break up her home to the point where she slew the spinster, ended in the county institution for the insane.

Judge McLean's order was a purely formal one of commitment. In it, he stated merely that Mrs. Thomsen had been found insane by a lunacy commission named by the court and had been pronounced a fit subject for a mental institution. In compliance with the commission's findings, the order stated, Mrs. Thomsen was to be taken to the Retreat hospital and confined there.

Alleged Suspect In Coast Murder Ordered Returned

Coast Officials Will Return H. C. Yardley Arrested At Uniontown

EVIDENCE FOUND LINKING SUSPECT

Man Held In Uniontown Denies Any Knowledge Of Slaying Of Mrs. Bibbens

(International News Service)

SAN DIEGO, Cal., May 1—H. C. Yardley, 34, held at Uniontown, Pa., as a suspect in the strangle killing of Mrs. D. W. Bibbens, will be returned here to face a charge of murdering the woman, it was announced today.

The District Attorney's office issued a complaint aginst him yesterday after Detective Chief Paul J. Hayes declared he had evidence that implicated Yardley in the death of the woman found garrotted in her apartment.

Hayes stated he has learned that Yardley stole $60 from her and threatened her life when she demanded the return of the money. Yardley is also said to have been with her as late as April 14, the day on which she is believed to have been killed.

According to dispatches from Uniontown, Yardley denied all knowledge of the crime. Yardley was quoted as saying that the woman was alive when he left and that she didn't want him to leave and asked him to return.

Waives Extradition

UNIONTOWN, Pa., May 1—Unperturbed when informed a warrant charging murder had been sworn out against him in San Diego Henry Yardley, 37, ship's cook and electrician, detained in Fayette county jail, maintained an amused nonchalance today when questioned regarding the death of Mrs. "Diamond Dolly" Bibbens.

Mrs. Bibbens, attractive rooming-house keeper, was found strangled in her San Diego home two weeks ago. Yardley, who formerly lodged in her home, maintains the woman was alive and "on her feet" when he left San Diego. He fixed his time and date of his departure at 1 o'clock on the afternoon of April 15 when the murder occurred.

The prisoner's composure was unruffled when he was told extradition proceedings probably would be started at once and that California officers already were enroute to Sacramento to procure requisition papers. He indicated that such process was unnecessary by stating his willingnes to waive extradition.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil, May 1.—Nearly exhausted and in rags after wandering through the jungles of the Brazilian hinterland for eighteen days, the Italain aviator Count Di Robilant and his mechanic were safe today in the small town of San Jose, State of Matto Grosso.

The two men were forced down and their plane wrecked in the wilderness April 13, while flying over the projected airmail route from Sao Paulo to La Paz, Bolivia. Army aviators located their plane on the Parana river last week, but could find no trace of the aviators.

A river steamer came upon them 100 miles from where the plane was picked up, according to meagre information emanating from the isolated town of San Jose. The men were weak from hunger and exposure, their clothing torn to pieces by jungle growth.

Government planes, natives in the vicinity and private airlines conducted an extensive search for the lost fliers, but hope of finding them had been practically abandoned.

Pinchot To Champion Fair Rate Board Bill By Touring Of State

Governor Will Take Personal Hand In Forcing Passage Of Fair Rate Bills

Charges Lobbyists At Work In Harrisburg To Influence Senate

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 1.—Governor Gifford Pinchot's battle for passage of three administration-supported fair rate board bills now before the legislature is to be carried to the people of Pennsylvania.

In his regular weekly radio broadcast, the Governor announced he will make a tour of the state, starting May 7 and winding up May 17, in which he will take the stump to urge support for the passage of the bills.

Plans For Tour

"During the campaign, the Governor declared, "I said I would go back to the people if necessary and tell them they ought to know what is going on in Harrisburg. It is necessary now."

He then announced he would make the tour, exact itinerary of which is expected to be fixed next week.

The Governor characterized passage of the bills in the house as "a real victory, but not a final victory." Fate of the bills, which provide for abolition of the Public Service Commission, its replacement with a fair rate board and for administrative machinery for the board, now lies with the senate, the Governor said.

He did not predict the fate of the bills in the upper house but viewed the outlook rather gloomily.

"When the senate elected Daix as President Pro Tempore," said he, "it made a bad start. A majority of those present yielded to the pressure of the paid public utility lobbyists who swarmed in Harrisburg the day the vote was taken.

Influence Seen

"The powerful utility lobby which induced a majority of the senate to put a henchman of the Philadelphia gang at the head of the senate was highly active then. It is equally active now and the utility lobby is concentrating all of its power and influence on the senate.

"If the senate is going to beat the fair rate bills by smothering them in committee or adverse vote on the floor, I want the people to know what it means and why it is done."

Should the bills be killed in the senate, the Governor said "they will be murdered in the dark for reasons which the men who kill them will not dare to set out in the open."

The Governor charged that "hidden forces" operating through lobbies have attempted throughout the session to defeat his utility program, and to fasten upon the people of the commonwealth "the exorbitant rates for gas, electricity, water, transportation and other things that make up modern civilization."

Appeals To Citizens

"Unless you voters demand that your representatives in the senate stand with you against the grasping public utilities, the fair rate bills may be beaten," the Governor said. In order to give the voters his viewpoint on the bills and his claims concerning the senate, he will make the state tour, the Governor announced.

"I am on the side of the people," said he. "I want the people to win. If they are to win they must get into this fight themselves."

You're the JUDGE

Old Man Feeker had owned the mill for as long as anyone could remember, and it was owned by his father before him and his grandfather before him. But old Feeker was getting older and felt the need of unloading it upon younger shoulders. He, therefore, leased it to Tom Jergins, together with two or three adjacent buildings, machinery and fixtures, and all that involved. The lease contained also this specification: That during the term of the lease Feeker would, at his own expense, maintain and keep the walls, timbers and roofs of the buildings in good condition. And the younger man, Jergins, took over the mill.

Things went on that way for a number of months. But suddenly Jergins sued, charging that Feeker had neglected to do any of the repairing he promised in the lease. The case went to trial. Feeker admitted his responsibilities under the lease, but said he had received no notice of any need for repairs.

smartly uniformed, commanded detachments of the marchers.

Red Square was lavishly decorated with red flags and signs painted in English, German, Chinese and Arabic as well as Russian. The placards hailed the U. S. S. R. as the "shock brigade of the world's proletariat."

The marchers gathered in formation before a huge grandstand flanking the tomb of Nikoali Lenin, founder of the Soviet regime. Soviet leaders addressed the gathering while members of the pilitbureau, chief executive organization of the U. S. S. R. and communist delegates applauded.

Clementi Voroshiloff, people's commissar for War, extolled the militarization of the soviet union as a guaranty against invention by the capitalist powers.

Fulfill Pledge

"We are fulfilling our pledge to the wrold proletariat to build socialism in the U. S. S. R., which is the Fatherland of the world proletariat," Voroshiloff said.

"Military intervention is our greatest menace. We have well-founded hopes of overcoming it."

At the conclusion of the address, Josef Stalin, dictator of soviet Russia, stood up on the platform and acknowledged the salute of the 70,000 demonstrators.

The parade ushered in a day of celebration in honor of May Day, which occurring simultaneously with the soviet Labor Day, was a national holiday. All theatres presented special performances designed to encourage the spread of the communistic doctrine, while factories employing foreign engineers and scientists put on special shows in their club-houses designed to demonstrate Moscow's struggle against the "anti-soviet war being waged by capitalist countries throughout the world."

STAR LORE

HARVEST MOON IN NORTHERN LATITUDES

By Arthur DeV. Carpenter.

At full moon, at the time of the autumnal equinox—the sun passing south of equator and the moon in its ascending node, the plane of its orbit comes nearest to being parallel with the observer's horizon in northern latitudes of any time in the year. Consequently the moon is least retarded in rising for several successive nights. Because there is so litle difference in time of moon-rise from night to night at this full moon, it's called "harvest moon". The average lateness of moon rise each day—latitude 40 north—is 50½ minutes. At harvest moon it is only 22 minutes. In still higher latitudes lateness is further reduced.

GLADEWATER, Tex., May 1.—Elaborate preparations to blast the blazing Sinclair No. 1 Cole oil well near here were nearing completion today and it was believed that a charge of nitroglycerin could be placed tonight or tomorow morning.

Fifty men with teams worked throughout last night throwing up earthen levees around the well so a small artificial lake can be formed. Water will be pumped into the basin to help cool the red-hot earth about the well. When that work is completed and molten machinery has been removed from the mouth of the flaming geyser, the Kinley brothers, nationally known "oil fire shooters" will be ready for their first attempt to snuff out the fire.

Oil men stated today that the fire was consuming $1,000 worth of oil an hour. In addition to that, the cost of fighting the blaze was enormous.

Manhole Covers Must Be Placed

West Winter Avenue Sewer May Be Cut From City System

Council today was told by Stanley Treser, colleague and superintendent of streets that manholes had not been placed by a contractor on the Winter Avenue sewer, west of Wilmington Avenue and drastic action was ordered.

When solons met at the city building Tresor said the Day Realty company had let a contract to Smith and McQuiston. The company was to pay for the sewer and the city for the inspection. The sewer was built.

Smith and McQuiston could not obtain the manhole covers. The inspector was kept on the job for a time then withdrawn. The manhole covers were not put in which resulted in proposed drastic action.

Treser succeeded in having council order that the company either put in the manhole covers or the city would cut off the sewer from the city sewage system. The order must be compiled with during the next 10 days.

HITCH HIKING THROUGH THE NEWS

NEW CASTLE and other cities of the Shenango and Beaver Valleys are arranging to take a large delegation of interested citizens to Harrisburg next Thursday for the ceremony of signing of the Pymatuning dam bill by Governor Gifford Pinchot. The Chamber of Commerce of this city is taking a leading part in the arrangements. This is a move that merits the co-operation of the entire district. Right well can this epochal step be celebrated. New Castle and the cities of the two valleys have as yet not fully realized the immensity of this proposition in its future benefit to them.

New Castle councilmen are delaying action on the bond issue for $100,000 that has been projected for several weeks. Approve the measure, and if the funds are needed for improvements of the summer the funds can be immediately secured. It is not necessary because the ordinance is passed that the entire amount be sold at once. It would only be necessary to sell as much of the issue as was actually required for the improvements to be undertaken.

Indications are that the posse members out in Arizona who captured W. Glenn Dague and Mrs. Irene Schroeder, wanted here for the murder of Corporal Brady Paul of the State Highway patrol are to be forced to enter court suit to get the reward they believe they are entitled to. It is a mystery to us why it is necessary to allow this matter to drag along. The reward is a voluntary proposition, and it is within the power of the county commissioners to say who gets the reward, and authorize the distribution.

Starting on Monday the women of the Jameson Memorial Hospital Ladies Aide Society will canvas the city for memberships to the organization for the coming year. This aide society is one of the big adjuncts that is responsible for successful operation of the institution, and it is deserving of city-wide support. The hospital belongs to the community—you and me. We must support it in every way that we are able. Most everybody can take out a membership in this aide society.

Bus lines have made a further inroad upon railway passenger service in this district. The Pennsylvania Railroad company has applied for permission to discontinue the passenger train service on the New Castle to Stoneboro branch of the line, claiming that it is operated at a loss due to the fact that bus lines are getting the patronage. With the state and county providing almost free right of way and maintaining the "roadbed" for the bus lines, they certainly have a great advantage over the railroads in the matter of cost of maintaining service.

Water was let out of the lake at Cascade Park during the week and boys have had a fine time catching the fish that have been imprisoned in shallow water. All of which brings to mind a suggestion—why not allow fishing in the lake during the summer time? Might as well allow fishing in the lake as to empty the fish out in one mass, as is done every time the lake is emptied. Fishing might prove an added attraction for many at the park, as well.

Farmers and fruit raisers are still not entirely of the same mind as to the damage done by the recent cold wave following the hot weather of the preceding week. One fruit raiser said yesterday that pears and peaches do not seem to be hurt, but that some of the early cherry blossoms have been killed.

The welfare agencies of the city are preparing to launch the local gardening project during the coming week. Free seeds are to be distributed to those needing them, when the garden plots are ready for planting. The plowing is also being done gratis. Many lots and acreage have been donated for those having no garden site, and there will be little excuse for people of the city not having an abundant supply of foodstuffs that can be raised in gardens, this summer and fall.

A boy went into a chemist's shop to use the telphone, and the chemist overheard him call up Dr. Brown and ask him if he wanted a boy.

"Are you quite satisfied with your present boy?" the lad inquired, and, after getting a reply, he answered, "Oh, then I don't think I need trouble you any further, thank you."

The chemist at once offered him work.

"Oh, I don't want a job," the boy replied.

"Why, you young beggar, you have just asked for a job," said the chemist.

"You see, I am Dr. Brown's boy, and I just wanted to see how I stood."

Whistling in the Dark
Well, Why Not?
It Makes a Pleasant Sound

By MARSHALL MASLIN

Why not whistle in the dark?

A whistle is not such a bad thing. It chases away the ghosts. It takes your mind from your troubles.

You're in trouble. The beasts of tragedy are snapping and snarling and you know not which way to turn. The ship is drifting toward the rocks. The foreclosure is just around the corner. You can't pay your life insurance. There is a nagging pain inside of you that you're keeping to yourself. The fair princess of life has been changed into an ugly, clammy toad. What will you do?

You can whistle in the dark.

You can find a bit of comfort somewhere, a crumb dropped magically in your pathway. You can say "I still have my health." You can say, "My wife still loves me." You can say, "Now I'll discover for myself just how strong I really am I'll see if I can endure as Job did—and complain a good deal less than he."

You can whistle in the dark and make a few observations about what fine weather we are having, and how you saw a bird yesterday building a nest, and it won't be long now before a fellow can go into the hills and have a good time beside a pleasant stream.

Of course, if you do whistle in the dark someone is sure to come your way and remind you that that's just what you are doing—and tell you there ought to be a law against Whistling in the Dark. And you ought to be ashamed of whistling when you should be whining.

Take my word for it, that's what will happen. But it's better to be whistling than to be sucking on a lemon. And a whistle makes a cheerful noise in the center of the gloom.

Just Folks

THE FISHING TRIP

I suppose you'd call it fishing! I've been out upon a stream,
But we had a thermos bottle filled with coffee rich with cream
And twenty dollar boots to wear,
the latest style of creel,
A book of all the fancy flies, a costly
rod and reel,
And everything which mortal man could ever ask or wish To guarantee his comfort when he ventures out to fish.

We had a man to cook the meal, a man to drive the car,
A guide we paid good money just to tell us where they are,
And though we had a happy day,
somehow it seemed to me
It wasn't just exactly what a fishing trip should be;
I didn't think the bargain fair, too easy were the terms,
I thought I should have been compelled to dig a can of worms.

I thought we should have had to trudge at least a mile or two,
And rise at dawn to start the fire,
the way we used to do.
It seemed to me I missed the thrill of planning for the trip,
Of packing cheese and crackers in the pocket on my hip;
Although I had a splendid time, I'd say upon the whole,
I think I liked it better when a fish rod was a pole.

It may be only memory which paints such pictures fair,
And twenty dollar boots are nice,
but heavy things to wear,
And if from food on fishing trips
you want the greatest joy,
It seems to me you ought to have the hunger of a boy.
We had some luck; we had some sport, but still somehow I know
It wasn't like our fishing trips of forty years ago.

Until we have learned to indulge

Until we have exercised our minds

Until we put every prejudice into

Until we are willing to go wherever truth leads us.
Until we stand ready to make any

Dear Fred: As I was walking along the street I noticed an old lady drop a key. She appeared to be near-sighted, so I rushed up to pick it up for her. On the way up, I noticed two men standing in a doorway watching her, but neither of them offered to help. I felt like crying "Shame!" but I stifled my Sir Gallahad impulse, and stooped for the key. Then the old lady stooped at the same time. The result was—well, you have a fairly good imagination, so I needn't go into that part of it. Anyway, I got the key—my head was the hardest, I guess, and I handed it to the old lady. Then I beat a hasty and ignominious retreat, and for six blocks I would have sworn I could still hear those men laughing. From now on, if I see a lady drop something, whether she be young or old, I will immediately have a pressing engagement in any direction but forward.

DAYLIGHT SAVING

There has been much argument about daylight saving in this vicinity. All kinds of arguments have been up for and against it. Read the following:

Arguments for Observance of Daylight Saving:

1. Provides greater opportunity for outdoor recreation and gardening, thus contributing to the health and welfare of the citizens.

2. Substitutes a cool working hour in the morning for a hot one in the afternoon, thus lessening indust[illegible] accidents and increasing the efficiency of output.

3. Eliminates confusion of different times in Pennsylvania and synchroniz[illegible]s our committees with the activities of the metropolitan centers in the East which generally observe daylight saving.

Arguments against Observance of Daylight Saving:

1. Reduces the working time on the farm, since the dew obeys only the sun in getting off the grass.

2. Takes away one hour from indoor amusements and works a hardship upon theatrical and related enterprises.

3. Continues confusion in traveling, communication, appointments, and the like, since daylight savint will not be uniform within the State or in neighboring States.

Americans Unable To Agree On Policy Toward Honduras

Treaty Requirements In Central America Are Widely Recognized, But Duty Toward Americans And Nationals Of Other Nations Raises Query

Revolution in Honduras soon after the announcement of the American government as to its policy in Central America causes much discussion. There is a fairly strong belief that limited protection in disturbed countries may be best, but the question is raised as to what should be done for Americans in the interior and for nationals of other countries who may be influenced by the requirements of the Monroe Doctrine.

"Clean-cut restatement of American policy" is demanded by the CINCINNATI TIMES-STAR, observing that "the Coolidge policy of guaranteeing full protection to American lives and property has been altered," and drawing the conclusion: "If American lives are endangered in the interior of Honduras, will we call out adequate forces to protect them, or will we adhere to the Nicaraguan policy and limit protection to the coastal towns? In view of the rich possibility of further trouble in Central America, an answer to this questioin is urgently called for."

"If the policy of the Hoover administration is adhered to, and its results prove satisfactory," says the HOUSTON CHRONICLE, "it should have a very beneficial effect on Pan-American relations, and the world sentiment for peace in general. * * * With five Central American nations, we are committed to a policy of opposition to revolutions. Yet adherence to that policy virtually forces us to some kind of intervention when a crisis comes. How we then can adhere to the new policy of strict non-intervention in case of a major revolution in any of the five countries it is not easy to see. The best we can hope is that the situation will not force us to drastic action. We have no desire to exploit these little countries, and no desire to force our will on them. We would not have, even though we were forced to intervene in their affairs but we can best demonstrate our motives to the world, and to Pan-America in particular, by refraining from intervention."

That Hondurans "are held in contempt by the exploiters of their country's natural resources" is pointed out by the ROCHESTER TIMES-UNION, with the suggestions that "any rebel leader backed by financial support is likely to find a man for every rifle he can furnish," and that "under such conditions the raw material for a rebellion is always existent." While holding that "absolute neutrality is the more difficult because of a revolutionary government," the ST. PAUL PIONEER PRESS feels that "the settlement of this internal quarrel should be left to the warring factions."

Recalling that Honduras is a party to the Central American treaty providing an agreement "not to recognize the validity of any government which usurps office by unconstitutional means," the WASHINGTON EVENING STAR remarks: "The question arises, what are constitutional means south of the Rio Grande? Ballots—or bullets?" The CHICAGO DAILY NEWS feels that "recent experience has shown that under present conditions it is not difficult to recruit forces in Latin American countries for an insurrection"; that "Honduras, in fact, is the eleventh southern republic to experience armed rebellion due to the unrest caused largely by the worldwide industrial depression," but "fortunately the present outbreak has little chance to succeed."

"Our country may help weaker neighbors strengthen police forces, but it should not deprive them of the right nor relieve them of the duty of maintaining order," in the judgment of the NEWARK EVENING NEWS, which adds: "This country's policy toward Latin America has not been so consistent and clear that the meaning of a change would be quickly digested. Still intimations of an impending change were given upon President Hoover's return from his Caribbean trip. The change and the test of the new policy have come suddenly, more quickly, perhaps, than even the administration expected. Every opportunit[illegible], should be given Mr. Stimson to work it out."

"There will be revolutions as long as there is opposition to generate them," asserts the DAYTON DAILY NEWS, emphasizing the point that the transition from peonage to more liberal rule has not been gentle." The KALAMAZOO GAZETTE says that "it was only through the friendly intervention of President Coolidge that the conflicting political ambitions of the various factions in Honduras were smoothed over and a new administration was installed." The CLEVELAND PLAIN DEALER thinks that "though the danger of an overthrow of the government may be small, the danger to Americans in the banana states of San Pedro and Atlantida is real."

"Should the radical Liberal, Ferrara, occupy the principal ports," according to the SAN ANTONIO EXPRESS, "he could collect enough customs to pay numerous troops." That paper observes "no connection between the Honduran revolt and Sandino's raids in Nicaragua." The TEXARKANA GAZETTE advises that "if this count[illegible]" [illegible] off Honduran internal affairs, Americans there will be reasonably safe." The MERIDIAN STAR, contending that "we are half way in and half way out," maintains that "we ought to get all the way in or get out and stay out." The SAN FRANCISCO CHRONICLE asks: "What preparation has Secretary Stimson made to avoid the consequences likely to follow from withdrawal of our protection from European nationals?"

"The Honduran situation," declares the BOSTON TRANSCRIPT, "renders the more imperative the question which had already been raised all over the country as to the wisdom or the logic of Secretary Stimson's declaration with regard to Nicaragua, which is to the effect that only American citizens in the ports are to be protecetd against what he himself calls "murder and assassination" and against the destruction of the property and industry which they have been invited to establish in Central American countries. The nine Americans who have been killed in Nicaragua were all in the interior."

ARE YOU TOO FRIENDLY?

Because of the custom in service clubs of calling members each by their first name, the habit is becoming more generally used outside.

Too many persons on short acquaintance use the first name.

This is offensive to some persons.

To use the first name is supposed to indicate a close friendship, or at least, a friendship that is mutually agreeable.

There are many men who do not wish to be classed as a close friend of any of whom they know little.

Men banded together in an organization in which each member is admitted because no one objected to him, have less cause for complaint when addressed by their first names.

But there are those outside these bodies who carry the system altogether too far, according to complaints heard now and then.

The person who gets too familiar on short acquaintance usually has a reason for wanting to give others the impression that he and So and So are friends of long standing.

He thinks it may aid him socially or in a business way.

But to preserve friendly relations with men generally, don't assume a position to which you are not entitled.

Judge Shines As Volunteer Weather Man

California Jurist Has Kept Records For Forty-One Years

BY ERNEST KIFF
International News Service Staff Correspondent

SANTA CRUZ, Cal., May 1—For 41 years Police Judge W. R. Springer of Santa Cruz has acted as official volunteer weather observer in this city.

Early in life he began the custom of recording rainfall, temperature, and general weather conditions daily, and since he came to Santa Cruz in 1890 he has kept a complete record of the weather each day, forwarding his reports to the government weather bureau in San Francisco each month.

As a result of his hobby he has been called into court on several occasions to testify concerning the weather on a certain date, the last time being about a month ago.

On that occasion the defendant in an automobile damage suit declared that the weather was foggy and he was unable to see the car with which he collided because of fog and rain.

Springer's record showed that the night in question was clear and cloudless.

Three times in the last 41 years he has computed the normal rainfall for Santa Cruz county for each day of the year, his last table covering the period from Sept. 1, 1890 to Aug. 31, 1930.

Springer was born in Missouri in 1848. When he was 65 he passed the California State Bar examinations and began to practice law, abandoning his practice when he was appointed police judge a position he has held for nearly 15 years.

In addition to compiling records of the weather, Springer, whose hobby is compilation has made lists of the county residents by street and numbers, telephone subscribers by numbers, county officials from the days of the Dons to the present time, and teachers in the Santa Cruz schools from the first one to date.

All this work is done in the spare hours which are not devoted to his jewelry business or to police court.

House Is Razed In Hunt For Gold

Old Stone House In St. Louis Torn Down By Money Seekers

(International News Service)

ST. LOUIS, May 1—Stone by stone a 100 year old home is being torn down by workers seeking $10,000 in money and securities an aged recluse is believed to have hidden before his death.

The stone house was built on a high hill overlooking most of South St. Louis.

To it J. C. Idecker brought his bride 50 years ago. He was a feudal lord over hundreds of acres contained in the farm on which the house was built.

Twenty two years ago his wife died, leaving him with three babies, a boy and two girls. Idecker closed up his wife's room after her death and he and the children lived in another part of the house.

County officials took the children away from him when they became of school age and he showed no inclination to educate them.

Then the children grew up and moved to the city to live. Idecker became more of a recluse. He tilled a part of the soil now valuable property because it was surrounded by the city, and hoarded his money.

Neighbors entered the house when his lifeless body was discovered, found his wife's room just as she had left it. A search failed to reveal the hidden money it was believed he hoarded. Workmen were then employed to tear the house down.

Grants Indemnity For Broken Wooden Leg

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1—When John Driscoll, a teamster, fell off his wagon he broke his leg.

An idemnity company was ordered by the state industrial accident commission to pay $383 to Driscoll for a "fracture of the leg" and ensuing doctor bills.

But the idemnity company objected that Driscoll's leg was wooden and all that happened when he fell from his wagon was that the wooden leg cracked up a bit.

The idemnity company claimed it wasn't a body injury and asked the state supreme court to review the case contending that "the state legislature has no power to enact laws by which workmen's compensation can be granted for damages to property of employes."

The supreme court upheld the order of the inustrial commission.

Gets Lesson On How Grapevine Works

(International News Service)

SAN QUENTIN PRISON, Cal., May 1.—There are a lot of rules at San Quentin prison regarding conversation and communication among its many prisoners, but—

"You can't beat the grapevine telegraph," believes Warden James B. Holohan.

The warden recently received a reprieve for a doomed man awaiting death on the gallows. So far as Holohan knew, he was the only person in the prison to be notified of the reprieve. He went to tell the convict that the governor had heard his plea and granted the stay.

"That's no news, Warden," the man replied smilingly. "We all knew it already."

"How?" asked the warden.

"The grapevine, warden, the grapevine," grinned the man.

Peace Time Soldier Wins Many Medals

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal. May 1.—John McLaren isn't a soldier but any general would be proud to display the medals and trophies he has won.

McLaren is a peace-time soldier, fighting barren land with seedlings and watering can for weapons.

He is superintendent of horticulture in San Francisco's mammoth Golden Gate Park. In the many years that he has held the position, he has worked miracles with shifting sand dunes that predominated the park years ago.

In recognition of his work he has received all forms of honors. At the last Charter Day exercises of the University of California he was conferred with an honorary degree in horticulture.

Most cherished of all the trophies is a tall silver cup presented to him by school children who contributed dimes after the Panama Pacific Exposition of 1915. It is inscribed:

"With appreciation and gratitude from the people of San Francisco. The gaiety and sweetness of blossoming flowers has been his great contribution to the success of the exposition."

Both England and France have recognized the park's wizard. Last July the Royal Horticultural Society of London enrolled him as an "Associate of Honor." Two French awards, the Republique Francais and the Jeanne d'Arc, in recognition of McLaren's work have been bestowed upon him.

In 1924 McLaren was recipient of the George Robert White medal from the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, the highest award of this type in the United States.

In spite of his 84 years, McLaren is as active as the most youthful of his corps of gardeners.

Prison Census.

What is the number of inmates of prisons in the United States? Are federal prisoners included?

The 1930 census of prison inmates, exclusive of jails, gives the total as 116,670. Of this number 11,270 are federal prisoners.

Candlemas Day.

What is the significance of groundhog day?

The second of February, popularly known in this country as groundhog day, is also celebrated as Candlemas day, on which the Feast of the Purification of the Virgin Mary is observed by the Roman Catholic church.

The observance of this day seems to have prevailed in pre-Christian times. The Romans burned candles on February 2 to the Goddess Februa. The exact date of the origin of this custom is unknown. There are many traditions regarding this day, the most common of which is that a fair day means that winter will be slow in leaving. In Canada a bear is substituted for the groundhog in our belief that if he sees his shadow on this day there will be six more weeks of winter.

Aqueduct Opens Boom In Desert

Small Town Of Vidal Takes On Aspects Of Real City

(International News Service)

VIDAL, Calif., May 1.—Not only will Boulder dam construction bring new desert towns into being, but preparations for the building of the Colorado river aqueduct into the Los Angeles area have resulted in a boom in this small desert town which in its palmiest days had boasted of only 3,500 population.

Vidal is situated in San Bernardino county, 40 miles south of Needles. At present it consists of a railroad station on the Phoenix branch of the Sante Fe; a hotel, postoffice, general store, the everpresent filling station and a boarding house.

Many miles from any other center of population steps already have been taken to care for the workers which the aqueduct construction will bring here.

The huge conduit must pass through the nearby Whipple mountains and for several years crews will be required to tunnel through the rock formation.

The San Bernardino county planning commission already has approved an ambitious plan for the townsite and workmen soon will lay domestic water mains, pave the main streets and erect business buildings in anticipation of the arrival of thousands of workmen next fall.

Returns To Alma Mater At Age Of 83 To Enter Classes

LONG BEACH, Calif., May 1.—Sixty-four years ago Walter L. Church of this city was graduated from the University of Missouri. Church has announced he will return to the university to take a post graduate course. He is 83 years old.

He was a student of Missouri during the last years of the Civil war. At that time federal troops were quartered in the university buildings and guarded the school.

Although he holds four degrees from three universities, Church said he planned to return to the Missouri university when the next school year starts. He will specialize in sociological and educational subjects. He received a bachelor of arts degree from the university in 1867 and a master of arts degree in 1870.

In 1866 he went to the University of Kentucky and received a doctor of divinity degree. A few years later he received a bachelor of laws degree from Washington university at St. Louis, Mo.

Church made and lost a fortune during the gold rush days in Alaska. He recouped his fortune, however, by practicing law. In 1900 he retired.

Seventy Five Railroad People Honor Anniversary Of Mabel Wilson Auxiliary

In celebration of the 15th anniversary of the founding of the Mabel Wilson auxiliary to the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, 75 members of the auxiliary lodge, their husbands, members of the Brotherhood and their wives, met at Malta hall Thursday evening.

From start to finish the party was a success and the enjoyment was such that it will be a long remembered event for those who were in attendance.

A delicious chicken dinner was served at 6 o'clock on long tables prettily decorated in color tones of red, green and white. At intervals along the tables there were tall red and green lighted tapers.

Clever favors marked the places for the 75 guests.

After dinner an informal program of addresses by several members of the Brotherhood and it's auxiliary were given. The topics were of great interest.

Pastimes were dancing, music and cards. Prizes in card playing were won by Mrs. O. A. Harper, Mrs. J. J. Horean, O. A. Harper and E. E. Brest. A dainty lunch was served late in the evening.

An out-of-town guest was Mrs. Edna Bogart, of Erie, who is a guest at the home of Mrs. Lois Deck.

M Johnston was chairman of the Mabie Wilson committee, consisting of Mrs. Jane Campbell and Mrs. Viola Evans. The committee for the men's Order included W. H. Evans, J. J. Horean and E. E. Brest. The success of the anniversary party is largely due to the work of these men and women.

Roped Bears Alive To Preserve Meat

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—In the very early ranching days of California, cowboys, then known as vaqueros, had no sporting purpose in mind when they roped live bears and brought them still alive to seaports.

Chase Littlejohn, pioneer resident of California and the first white child to be born in Redwood City, near here, relates that it was the custom of cowboys on ranches to lasso grizzly bears instead of shooting them. Then they were dragged down to the embarcadero where they were killed and quartered for shipment to San Francisco for meat.

By following this procedure, Littlejohn says, the meat arrived in San Francisco in better condition than if the bears were killed where they were found.

Littlejohn recently donated a claw of one of the grizzlies to the University of California at Berkeley which was cut from the carcass of one of these bears as it was hanging ready for shipment.

Rewards Honesty Of Hotel Porter

Is Given Ten Spot For Returning $60,000 Worth Of Gems In Wallet

HARRISBURG, May 1.—W. T. Feaser, hotel porter here, made himself $10 the other day.

He was cleaning a room from which Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Huber, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., had checked out only a few minutes earlier.

He found a wallet, looked in it and saw a quantity of jewelry, took it to the hotel desk.

Soon after, Huber returned, anxious and worried. He was given the gems.

CATCHES BIG ONE

(International News Service)

WINSTED, Conn. — A twelve-pound large-mouth bass was taken from the waters of Atwater pond, just over the Massachusetts line north of here, by Samuel R. Wilbur, caretaker of the estate on which the pond is located. The bass had been crushed by ice against a screen at the outlet of the lake. The fish was almost exactly two feet long.

The objection to the University of Hard Knocks is that it provides so darned much post graduate work.

Americans Attack African Pass Law

(International News Service)

BOSTON, May 1.—Their only offense being failure to have a pass results in the arrest of 40,000 native men and boys in South Africa annually, acording to reports received by the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Misions from Reverend Ray E. Phillips, social service worker in charge of the Bantu Men's Social Center in Johannesburg, South Africa.

According to Reverend Phillips, a concerted movement to institute a change in the present pass law has been made by the Johannesburg joint council and the Transvaal Association.

The pass law requires that no native be upon the streets of Johannesburg without a pass. The foes of the law claim that the natives are rapidly losing respect for all the white man as a result of pass regulations.

DON'T BE A HESSIAN

Back in 1776 the Hessians thought that the Delaware River was too full of ice for George Washington and his army to get across. So they went out and celebrated Christmas Eve. They laid off, because business was dull. They made the mistake of thinking that everybody would lay off.

But George Washington got across that river.

There are some George Washingtons today. They know business has been dull—that the river is full of ice. But they have got to get across. They keep things going, advertise, push sales, keep up volume.

Labor Chief Eulogizes Spirit Of Buddy Poppy

By WILLIAM F. GREEN
President, American Federation of Labor.

Three years have been added to the decade which has passed since that fateful November 11 when the funs of the great war were silenced.

But the cessation of the cannon's thunder, the declaration of peace, the signing of the peace treaty, were not all that followed the grim, red footsteps of war.

There were those who returned from battle maimed in body, broken in mind, crippled to the extent of forever being unfitted for the occupations and customs of normal living.

These have become the nation's sacred wards. And the nation's fulfillment of that solemn obligation is evidenced in hospitals and sanitariums, under the care of the most skilled in the medical profession, guarded by the wisest and gentlest of nurses; by veterans' homes and institutions—all that a grateful government can bestow to ease the burden of lives of helpless pain and suffering.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, the organization representative of those who stood shoulder to shoulder with our allies of the French, Belgian, Italian and English armies in conquering the Central Powers, has adopted the poppy of Flanders field as a symbolic tribute to their comrades who now forever sleep within the silent City of the Dead.

And those of the veterans who returned but who, year after year, must be prisoners of a bed or chair have turned from the sword and gun to fashion silken poppy leaves.

Wear a Buddy Poppy on Poppy Day; gather them from hospital wards in glowing swirls of color; heap high their crimson beauty on green mound and white stone.

Forget for a day the bank, the counting room, the factory, mill, mine—the thousand and one demands of daily activities.

Live again in memory of those hours of riotous gratitude of November 11, 1918.

And let your reverent appreciation take visible form in the purchase of Buddy Poppies, and yet more Buddy Poppies.

You are free to walk in the sun, to run with the wind.

They are held by bonds of pain and suffering they may not break—they are prisoners for life that you may be free.

Those who marched side by side with you in exaltation of high resolve must now but while away their hours shaping silken poppy leaves.

Buy a Buddy Poppy on Poppy Day.

Buffalo Pays Great Tribute To Dr. McGuire

Husband Of Former Local Resident Held High Place In Medical World

Funeral services of the late Dr. Edgar Robinson McGuire, famous as a surgeon throughout the United States and Europe, and professor of surgery in the University of Buffalo Medical School, whose death occurred Wednesday, April 22, 1931, were held at his late residence, Buffalo, Saturday, April 25, 1931.

Dr. McGuire was the husband of Mildred Francis McGuire, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Francis of Craig street, this city, who with members of their family attended the funeral services.

The services were largely attended and were conducted by Dr. Samuel Holmes, pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church of Buffalo, N. Y.

Dr. McGuire was born in Mt. Forest, Ont. He received the degree of Doctor of Medicine from the University of Buffalo Medical School in 1900 and served his internship in the Buffalo General hospital the following year.

In 1901 he became instructor and lecturer in the University of Buffalo Medical School and in 1914 became acting professor of surgery in that institution. Three years later he attained the professorship, which position he held until the time of his death. He was one of two Buffalonians named a fellow of the American College of Surgeons. He was associated with many of the greater medical societies and was an authority on adbdominal and cranial surgery.

He leaves his wife, one son, Edgar McGuire, a daughter Annette McGuire, a sister Mrs. Amanda J. Ryan of Vancouver and a brother, Dr. George A. McGuire also of Vancouver.

The Buffalo papers carried tributes from his associates of the University of Buffalo Medical School and the Buffalo City hospital of which he was chief surgeon. The Buffalo Courier-Express carried an editorial, which conveyed the esteem in which he was held, in which it was said among other things "Dr. Edgar R. McGuire stood for the finest traditions of surgery, and his fame overleaped the borders of local eminence to attain a world-wide and solid distinction. He leaves—as a public benefactor—a place in the community radiating a continued beneficence."

LOOKING BACK IN NEW CASTLE

In the present day, when motor bus lines are fast displacing street cars, local and interurban, as a mode of travel between this and many other cities in all parts of the country, it is probably quite hard for a present day resident of the city to imagine the earlier modes of transportation in the forerunners of the present fast motor bus service lines.

It will be of interest to learn that in January, 1851, what was probably the first efficient effort in bus transportation was established between this city and Beaver. Frederick Haly was the originator of this service. The trip was made daily and the trip was made in the then remarkably fast time of five hours. It must be remembered that this was by means of horse drawn coaches.

In July of the same year, the famous Lawrence Guards, a military organization of considerable note, was organized with W. W. Taylor as captain.

In the same year, the question of paving the streets was agitated and at a meeting of the city council February 28, 1851, it was resolved to plank during the summer, Washington, Jefferson and Mercer streets.

In that same year, the matter of enlarging the limits of the borough was agitated. After considerable discussion, resolutions were adopted opposed to any extension of the borough beyond the Shenango River and Neshannock Creek.

Among the improvements of that year were a new bridge over the canal at Mercer street, a new foundry building erected by R. W. Cunningham, and the Union School building, which later became the Martin Gantz school, which was abandoned recently. It cost $7,000.

Hundred Books Added To School Library Recently

New Collection At Thaddeus Stevens School Includes Wide Variety

One hundred new books were recently placed upon the shelves of the Thaddeus Stevens school library. There is a wide variety of literature in the new collection—standard classics, the newest fiction, books on travel, adventure, science and nature study.

"Hitty, Her First Hundred Years," by Rachel Field, won the Newbery prize this year. "Jungle Babies," by Mrs. Martin Johnson, is a collection of animal stories. "Little America" is Richard E. Byrd's story of his expedition to the South Pole. History and geography are delightful when learned from such books as "A Child's Geography of the World" and "A Child's History of the World" by Hillyer.

The entire library has been chosen to suit the tastes of children of the first six grades. The Dewey decimals system is used and the children are learning how to use a library.

BROKER GOES TO JAIL FOR SAKE OF PRINCIPLE

(International News Service)

ATLANTA, Ga., May 1—All because of partridges, principles and pigeons, J. S. Shettlesworthy, wealthy, 60-year-old produce broker and former state legislator, began serving a three-months jail term here rather than pay a fine of $50.

Shettlesworth sold four partridges and was convicted on the state law prohibiting sale of game birds. He refused to pay the fine and was sentenced to three months in prison instead.

"It's a matter of principle, not money," Shettlesworth said. "The state game and fish department used a 'stool pigeon' to gain a conviction and under the law a portion of the fine goes to the informer. I would serve more than three months to keep a 'stool pigeon' from getting any of my money."

Shettlesworth said he didn't object to the law at all, but was opposed to methods of the game and fish department in apprehending violators.

Argentinians' Visit Recalls Day Of '49

(International News Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, May 1.—The grandson of the greatgrandson of an early-day California soldier traveled from Argentina to visit the fort and historic barracks where the grandfather was in charge.

John Benitz, wealthy Argentine landowner and his year-old son, John Carlton Benitz, recently visited old Fort Ross near here. William Benitz, the grandfather, served as commandant under General John A. Sutter in 1844.

Under the guidance of the Society of California Pioneers, the Argentine man has traced back some of the events that perpetuate the name of his ancestors on the California Roll of Honor.

Fumigation Must Be Done With Intelligence

"A recent tragic occurrence in one of the large cities in Pennsylvania has again emphasized the extreme danger in the use of poisonous gases as fumigating agents in homes and factories," said Doctor Theodore B. Appel, State Secretary of Health, today.

"While the removal of vermin in industrial plants, apartment houses and dwellings is a worthy objective, enthusiasm to exterminate insects should be tempered with the utmost caution and the application of the most intelligent type of action.

"One of the fumigants employed in large plants is hydrocyanogen which, if improperly handled, develops a real hazard to human life. As a matter of fact, cyanide is one of the most deadly agents to animal life known to chemistry. Its penetrating vapor is almost miraculous in its effects nearly instantaneous.

"It follows that individuals or commercial exterminating companies who make a practice of employing this method of fumigation should be highly proficient in their work and should exercise very great care.

"At the present time there is no law on the statute books of Pennsylvania prohibiting the employment of this method. However, that the practice is considered generally to be extremely hazardous is proved by ordinances which have been passed by many of the larger cities controlling the practices of fumigating with this agent. The wisdom of this action becomes apparent in the requirements involved. They include the following provisions; 1. That no person or persons shall be permitted to fumigate with poisonous gases unless examined by the city officials, and having thus presented due evidence of their technical knowledge and efficiency. 2. Buildings being treated by this method must be effectively sealed. 3. Occupants of the building must be warned to move out. 4. The return of any persons until thirty-six hours have elapsed and proper ventilation has taken place is prohibited. 5. Signs must be placed on the outside of the building warning the public that this type of fumigation is being conducted.

"Apartment house owners, factory executives and individual householders therefore should be extremely interested in learning the details connected with any fumigating process for the purpose of removing vermin which may be offered to them. Non-poinonous gases are now being employed very successfully; and cyanide gases, from the standpoint of the death hazard involved, should only be used under the strictest kind of expert supervision. Further deaths from this cause mean inexcusable carelessness or inefficiency. Kill the vermin, certainly. But don't kill human beings in the process."

TELLS WHY DAM PASSED

(International News Service)

PASADENA, Calif. May, 1.—Fear that the Colorado River would overflow its banks caused Congress to pass the Boulder Dam measure authorizing construction of Hoover Dam, according to Congressman F. E. Davenport of New York, the only eastern member of the dam committee, who was a visitor here. "I don't think it was so much Southern California's need for water as fear that the Colorado River might overflow again and flood the Imperial Valley which put the Hoover Dam bill through Congress," Davenport commented.

Lightning Ruins New Burglar Trap

Lightning Puts Burglar Contraption On Cash Register Out Of Commission

(International News Service)

HAGERSTOWN, Md., May 1—What's a man going to do when even Nature aids burglars?

That's what Leslie Kephart, shopkeeper here, wants to know.

Kephart read of several robberies in nearby towns, determined no burglar would profit in his shop.

So he rigged up an electrical contraption, very complicated and very potent, and attached it to the cash register. Electricians who looked it over opined it would kill anyone tampering with the cash register after the device was set.

Secure and relieved, Kephart forgot about burglars.

Came then a thunderstorm one night Kephart wentto business next morning, discovered his cash register rifled of $60.

Lightning had put his burglar trap out of commission.

"That is the time to play ball and not to shake hands, slap shoulders and chum with the enemy," the order read.

CONSUMPTION IS CATARRH DANGER

Disease May Progress Down Throat To Lungs. World's Tonic Helps Him

Probably the most dangerous thing about catarrh is the possibility of the disease leading on to consumption. Catarrh for instance, begins in the nasal passages. Gradually it spreads and soon it attacks the throat. The poisonous acrid discharges continue to spread the catarrh and in the order named, the trachea or windpipe, bronchial tubes and lastly the substance of the lungs are attacked. The victim is then standing on the very stepping-stone to consumption.

Symptoms of this condition are tightness in chest, soreness in chest, difficult breathing, darting, sharp or dull, heavy pains or a prickly distressing sensation accompanied with more or less cough or asthma expectoration. Catarrh is such a dangerous enemy to health, and life that men and women should start treating it as quickly as they realize they have it.

World's Tonic is a new systemic treatment made especially to help catarrh sufferers and is needed by thousands of people. It almost immediately relieves the dripping of the poisonous discharges from the nose, pains in head, inflammation of the nose and throat and the like. World's Tonic also helps combat catarrh within the system at its sources and is designed to help rid the system of catarrh and liver, kidney and bowel trouble. Get it at Eckerd's, McKee's, Paisley, Smith's or any other reliable druggist.

Plan For Big Utility Probe At Youngstown

Impartial Investigation Of Public Utilities Will Be Started Monday

THOMAS BEATEN BY JOURNAL ENTRY

(International News Service)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., May 1.—Their battle for an impartial investigation of the Public Utility situation won before a special tribunal appointed by the Ohio Supreme Court, no obstacles today appeared in the paths of attorneys Fred J. Heim and David F. Kennedy, who will conduct the probe for the Mahoning County Common Pleas Court.

The investigation, scheduled to convene next Monday, will delve into the relationships alleged to exist between Ray Thomas, the Mahoning County prosecutor and the Ohio Edison company; the career of Harry Engle, deposed traction commissioner, who A. C. Blinn, vice president of the Edison Company, in a letter to city council charged had attempted to collect $150,000 from the company for "services rendered"; and all others who may be involved.

The original plan to summon three investigators was altered yesterday and Heim and Kennedy, leaders in the Mahoning County Bar Association, were named to conduct the probe. Names of 35 jurors have been chosen from the jury wheel and of this number 15 will be chosen Monday morning to serve as the special grand jury in the investigation.

Thomas Is Barred

Three visiting judges assigned to sit here by Chief Justice Carrington T. Marshall of the Ohio Supreme Court, provided for the investigation in a journal entry which they filed after a preliminary hearing on the competence of Thomas to conduct the probe.

The journal entry in addition provided for investigating Thomas, both in the conduct of his offiee and his relations with individuals and corporations; barring Thomas and his assistants from any part in the probe; limiting the probe to the issues which will be explained to the grand jury; and the refusal of immunity to any witness who may be called.

Organ Recital In First Church

Thomas H. Webber, Jr., Is Assisted By Lillian Butcher Stambaugh Thursday

Lovers of pipe organ music were treated to a feast Thursday evening in the First Presbyterian church when Thomas H. Webber, Jr., organist and choirmaster of that congregation presented a recital that was most interesting and entertaining. He was assisted by Mrs. Lillian Butcher Stambaugh, whose beautiful voice is well known throughout the city.

Mr. Webber opened the recital with "Fantasie-Symphonic" by Cole. It is a brilliant number and the beauty of it was well brought out. "Fugue in C Major" by Bach was then given; this spontaneous, catchy number was well received. The delightful "Menuet" by Dethier followed, after which Mr. Webber played "Evening Bells and Cradle Song," a number which brings out the tonal qualities of the organ as the far off church bell rings while the mother lulls her child to sleep.

Mrs. Stambaugh then sang "The Cross" by Ware and her pleasing concert manner and charming voice were greatly appreciated by the audience.

The "Sonata Cromatica" by Yon, a composition of modern tendency, was the next number, this being followed by "Scherzino" by Ferrata a dainty piece written in a light mood. "The Largo" by Handel was the next number, one which is always pleasing to lovers of music.

Mrs. Stambaugh next gave "The Lord is My Light" and responded to an encore with "The Holy Hour" by Nevin.

The organ continued with "Harmonies Du Soir" by Karg-Elert, a mood portraying a night scene, realistic and colorful. The next presentation was of humorous nature, being "Humoresque, L'Organo Primitivo" by Yon, containing the imitation of an organ that had seen its best days. This was given in Mr. Webber's inimitable manner.

"Toccata Do Concerto" by Lemare, a brilliant number of a festival character, brought the recital to a climatic close, this number using the pedals of the organ in the melody and a staccato figure in the manuals.

First Henry Scholars Leave This Summer

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 1.—John Albert Norton of Mt. Hermon, Mass., and William David Behnke of Riviera, Cal., are going to England next fall as the first Yale men to hold Henry scholarships, the allowance being $2500 a year.

Norton goes to Oxford and Behnke to Cambridge.

In exchange on the same scholarships, Donald Wormell of St. John's college, Cambridge, and E. P. Yule of St. Andrew's are coming to Yale in the fall.

The late Lady Julia Henry of England furnished the scholarships "in the earnest hope and desire of cementing the bonds of friendship between the British empire and the United States."

Tours California Coast By Rowboat

(International News Service)

RED BLUFF, Cal., May 1.—F. J. Warrick, 40, of Sioux City, Ia., decided to see California in a manner different from the ordinary tourist.

He arrived here from a trip in a row boat from Oakland, Cal., covering the distance in a little over four months.

Warrick says he is not worried by dust or blowouts or the price of gasoline and oil. He carries a large amount of camp equipment and supplies. A lot of his food is secured by fishing tackle and a gun.

Warrick was born in Sioux City, but he says he has always had a desire to see the world. When he got an offer for his farm, he sold and came to California.

The traveller fell in love with the streams and scenery in northern California and decided to explore in a leisurely way. He declared the rowboat afforded the best means to enjoy his trip.

So there's a row among the literary lights. Maybe one of them praised another in print and failed to get the usual return compliment.

Small Boys' Dreams Realized In Fire

(International News Service)

DANBURY, Conn., May 1.—Many a small boy realizing a daring dream when James E. Cuff's barn went up in flames. The barn was the sole storehouse of fireworks in this region, and all next summer's supply of combustibles was in there when a grass fire went roaring up to the barn and even further.

For an hour the rockets went off into space and Roman candles darted all over the barn yard to the great annoyance of firemen. When the fire was put out hundreds of youngsters ransacked the ruins and lugged away sopping packages they hope will dry out for future use.

A cover has been invented for outboard motor propellers that reduces the speed of a boat when a fisherman wishes to move slowly enough to troll.

State-Owned Herds Produce Big Milk Supply

Production Will Be Stepped Up At Pennsylvania Institutions

HAVE ONE COW FOR EVERY 23 INMATES

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 1.—With dairy herds of 15 state institutions producing enough milk to supply three-quarters of a pint daily to each of some 19,000 inmates, production will be increased to the point where each animal gives at least 10,000 pounds of milk per year, Gov. Gifford Pinchot said here today.

Reports gathered for the governor by John L. Hanna, secretary of welfare, indicate that the present average production at state institutions is over 9,000 pounds of milk per animal yearly. This allows 262 pounds of milk per year for each inmate. The report made by the secretary of welfare indicates there is now one cow for each group of 23 inmates.

Increase in milk production will be made without increasing the size of the state herds, the governor said. The outlined program calls for complete eradication of disease and replacement of animals now producing at least 10,000 pounds of milk per year. Hanna's reports indicate that bovine tuberculosis has been completely eradicated from the state herds but other diseases are found in approximately one-third of the herds.

Only registered Holstein bulls are now being used and will continue to be used in the state's dairy herds, it was stated, and records of their offspring will be checked carefully.

The state institutions studied in the milk report include eight mental hospitals, four state penal institutions and three state schools.

Unusual Petition Filed By Woman

First Husband Returns, Woman Seeks To Annul Marriage To Her Second Husband

(International News Service)

FRANKLIN, Pa., May 1.— The Venango county court today was confronted with an unusual petition, the result of an "Enoch Arden" return.

Mrs. Sara C. White has petitioned for annulment of her marriage last December to Robert A. McChesney because Alfred P. White, her former husband, who left her in 1923 and who she later was told was dead, has returned.

The woman petitioned the court to annul the second marriage declaring she believed her marriage to White was valid.

French Women Shun Marriage

Claim They Enjoy More Freedom Earning Own Living

PARIS, May 1. — Marriages in France are becoming less numerous because women are reaching a state of economic independence, according to the newspaper "L' OEuvre."

The majority of women questioned declared they could see no point in becoming the "domestic puppets of a husband" when they can enjoy much more freedom earning their own living. Very few women admitted that they enjoyed rearing families, or doing household work.

It also was brought out that the traditional French dowry is becoming a thing of the past with the masses. Nowadays it is limited mainly to the more wealthy and aristocratic classes.

Marriages among the working people appears to be entirely a question of affection. Although the number of marriages is on the decrease, the number of true-lover matches are more numerous than before.

Since the World war French women have undergone a tremendous change. Impoverished by the loss of husband or father, they have taken up business as the only means to prevent starvation. But in so doing, they have increased the attractiveness of the commercial field and many of the younger girls today as a natural result prefer office to domestic duties.

"Legs" Near Death

Again the target of enemy bullets, Jack "Legs" Diamond, kingpin gangster, is near death in an Albany, N. Y., hospital. His recovery from effects of wounds sustained last Winter was not quite complete when he was ambushed at the Aratoga Inn, Catskill, N. Y. Above picture is the latest one made of the gangster.

Extortion Letter Writer Is Hunted

State Police Hunt For Extortion Writer At Selinsgrove, Pa.

WIDOW GETS NOTES ASKING FOR $2000

(International News Service)

SELINSGROVE, Pa., May 1.—Efforts of state police to trap the authors of extortion letters, demanding $2,000 from Mrs. Charles T Aiken, widow of the president of Susquehanna university here, were disclosed today as troopers ocntinued their unsuccessful hunt for the writers.

Four letters were received by Mrs Aiken, it was said, all of them mailed from Sunbury. They instructed her to place the money in a glass jar and leave it on the Salem road near a cemetery west of here. Mrs Aiken turned the letters over to state police and made no attempt to carry out their demands.

A police detail was stationed here, it was disclosed, and Mrs. Aiken was asked to leave a note to the extortionists, stating she would leave the money in the designated spot sometime this week.

Last Friday night, troopers said a car stopped at the cemetery and the note was picked up by an unidentified man who fled before the troopers could surround the car.

Since that time, Mrs. Aiken and the troopers said, no further demands have been made for money Mrs. Aiken could give no reason for the attempted extortion.

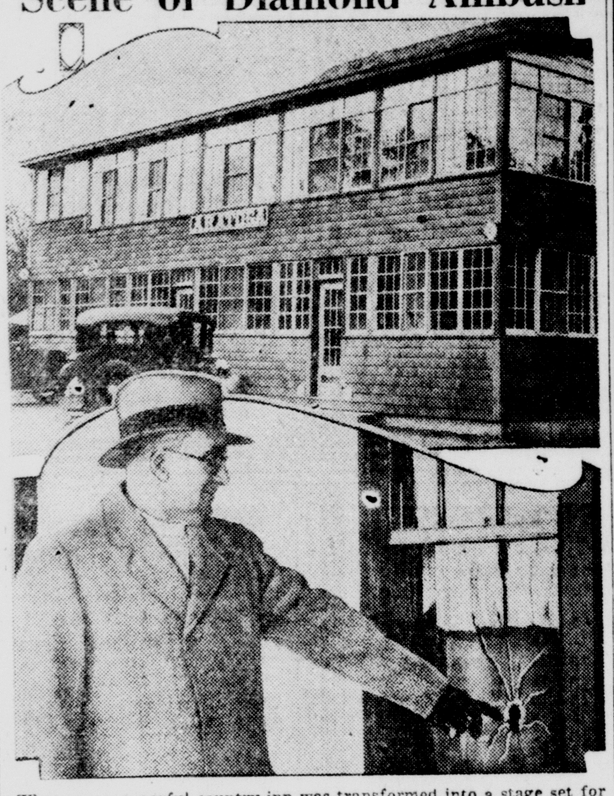
Rice will take part for a state championship in the orchestral contests. With him when he left this morning on the Pennsylvania railroad were his sister, Miss Irene Rice, and Miss Eva Coulter, instructor of orchestra at Ben Franklin Junior high school.

More than 100 high schools in Pennsylvania today were represented by about 1,500 students who gathered in Altoona to take part in the contests. The students will compete for state titles in debating, delivering orations, extemporaneous speeches and in orchestra and band selections. The program will continue until tomorrow.

Scene of Diamond Ambush



What was a peaceful country inn was transformed into a stage set for an episode in the career of the notorious gangster chief, Jack "Legs" Diamond, when another attempt was made upon his life at the Aratoga Inn, Catskill, N. Y. Top panel of above picture shows the scene of Diamond's latest ambush. Lower shows H. Clay Ferris, under-sheriff of Catskill, pointing out a bullet hole made by one of the slugs that missed the gangster. Diamond is said to be near death in an Albany N. Y., hospital. The police have no clue to his assailants.

Mora Denies He Was Intoxicated

Says That He Could Not See Winston Car Until He Was Nearly On Top Of It

In the case of Catherine Zelesnak against Walter Mora, which is on trial in court before Judge Hildebrand, the defendant went upon the witness stand in his own defense today and denied that he was intoxicated at the time of the automobile accident at Chewton which resulted in the deaths of two persons.

Mora told about being at a dance in Chewton and of starting home shortly after 10 o'clock. He claimed that he was not driving fast at the time his car struck that of Jefferson Winston, which was parked on the road at a curve. He claimed that the car was on the concrete and that he could not see it until it was too late to stop his car. Winston was killed and Mary Maga died later in the Providence hospital.

Emily Maga testified that she was hitting in the rumble seat of the Mora machine when the accident occurred. She could not see the parked car before it was struck. She estimated the speed of the Mora car at about 35 miles per hour. She had not smelled liquor on Mora and did not know of his drinking anything that evening except pop. She had gone to the refreshment stand with Mora for the pop.

Joseph Gallion of Wampum, testified that he had passed the car parked on the road a few minutes before the accident. He said that all four wheels of the car were on the concrete. The case is still on trial.

Land Holding System Of Spanish Republic Played Down In News

Co-Operative System Of Peasant Proprietorship Announced By Cabinet Minister Not Thorough Enough For Russia

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, May 1 — The Spanish republicans' start upon reconstruction of their country's land holding system has been curiously "played down" in cables from Europe thus far.

It has been mentioned, but only casually.

Perhaps this is because, agriculture having been particularly hard hit by post-war deflation, with a resultant slump in the price of farms, shallow economists temporarily have ceased to consider land of much importance.

It would be strange if Spanish intellectuals had fallen into such an error, for while the overthrown monarchy's actual practice was thoroughly unenlightened, the abstract reasoning of the advanced, independent school of Spain's economic thought has long been of a very high order.

However, key men in the new government appear to be living up to what might have been expected of them.

The initial impression appears to have been that an ultra-conservative group of Republicans had come into power in Madrid. It was hard to believe of a cabinet which included the veteran liberal, Alejandro Lerroux, in the premier post of minister of state, and the famous socialist agrarian authority, Fernando de los Rios, in charge of the portfolio of justice, but that was the verdict.

Quite likely Moscow's expressed dissatisfaction had something to do with it; even Dr. de los Rios evidently is not radical enough for the Kremlin.

The Russian newspaper Izvestia, for example, was first to broadcast the complaint that the Zamora regime showed no signs of moving in the direction of dispossessing the great landlords, whose generally-recognized greed, since the creation of their estates began about the middle of the Nineteenth century, notoriously has reduced a fairly prosperous peasantry to dire poverty in the last 80 years.

Yet the very batch of dispatches among which a translation of this accusation by Izvestia was one, contained also an interview from Minister of Justice de los Rios describing steps already taken by him toward establishing a "co-operative system of peasant proprietorship" immediately.

It is not, to be sure, on the Russian model, which it may be accounts for Izvestia's disapproval. There is nothing in it to evoke the applause of orthodox standpatters in countries like the United States, nevertheless.

Dr. De Los Rios will be denounced as an out-and-out "red," indeed, as soon as it is generally noticed that he employs the parlous expression, "communally-owned land."

It is not so crimson an idea, for all that. Not if antiquity confers respectability.

Land was held largely in common throughout Europe until comparatively recently—in England until the mid-1700's, when the "squires" began concentrating it in big estates, each with its tenantry; just as, with the disappearance of free land, a tenant class is being created in this country now.

Spain, to a great extent, clung to common ownership for a century longer than the English. The system is not entirely extinct in the province of Leon today.

But in Spain the grandees tried to effect their grab more quickly than the English artistocracy had done, and it precipitated a revolution.

Its principal purpose was to restore their land to the people, as I have been assured by as competent a historical authority as Francisco Salmeron, a son of Nicholas Salmeron, who was one of the three presidents of the short-lived Spanish republic of 1873.

Monarchist rule speedily was reestablished, it is true. The grandees got the land after all. They held it for more than five and a half decades, but in 1931 the Zamora provisional administration has taken up the task of returning it to the peasantry exactly where President Salmeron had to drop it just after Ulysses S. Grant's second inauguration in Washington.

As Dr. de los Rios outlines his plan, the program is to make of each of the Spanish municipalities a kind of "holding company" for the farming area in its vicinity, with the peasants as members of the company.

At present he is drafting leases visiting the land titles in the municipalities.

The expropriated grandee landlords, he says, are to be compensated "at a fair rate, to be fixed by the government," not by the grandees, lest it prove impossible ever to agree on a "fair rate."

Will it be an application of the Henry Georgian single tax principle?

I put this question to Congressman Robert Crosser of Cleveland, who, I believe, understands the single tax more fully than any other man in Washington, and he rather disappointed me (for I would like to see the single tax tried out on so large a scale) by saying that he thinks not.

"Of course it depends," he said, "upon the terms on which the farmer gets his land.

"If he is given full possession of it, and pays, each year, full value for that year's use of it, and, on that basis, is recognized as entitled to all of whatever it yields to him, then it's a single tax transaction; but if the farmers farm co-operatively and divide their total product among themselves that's socialism. It looks to me like socialism.

"Besides, there seems to be no mention of industrial land, which should be included, as well as agricultural land, if this is the single tax."

On one point, however, the congressman agreed with me—regardless of the "fair rate" of their compensation, the expropriated grandees can be depended on to make Spain's hills echo to their lamentations at the fashion in which they are certain to swear they have been gypped.

Your Mother goes or I go...this Minute!

A husband's own true story of how his wife and his mother—living under a single roof—loving him with equal fierceness—succeeded only in dragging his soul through hell

AN orphan—Flo called herself—that evening we met in the city—strangers—lonely. After that night—I lived for her passionate lips—lips that enticed me into marriage.

Penniless—we left the city—went to my small-town home—and to my poor, old widowed mother who loved me more than life. Haughty, cold, selfish at heart—Flo disliked Ma—but smiled on her—when she refused to live with us—after buying our furniture with money she'd saved for her burial!

Flo spent wildly—kept me broke—baby came—and Flo took pneumonia. When Ma sold her house to pay our bills—she had to live with us. Two women—one roof—that's when hell cut loose!

Kind, noble—Ma did all the work—never complained. Flo sulked, nagged—even cursed Ma for kissing baby—for little things—for nothing at all. I couldn't understand. I suffered—stormed—but with her ravishing body—Flo would burn to cinders all defense for Ma!

Then Ma took neuralgia—couldn't work. That capped the climax. Flo kept growing nastier—UNTIL—that day Ma broke a pitcher—trivial thing—a molehill that flared into a mountain. "Get out—out of my home, you worthless hag"—Flo screamed and, swinging on me—"This roof's too small—she's got to go, Eddie—or out I go—this minute!"

"Stop," I roared. "You're cruel as a snake." Flo moved toward me—voluptuous arms circled my neck—"Ma's sick," I struggled on, "No friends—no place to go—she'd die! Before you drive her out"—Flo's lips sought mine—"I'll see you—damn you—I'll see you—you . . ."

Which woman did Eddie choose? Did his slavish desire for Flo once more tear into shreds his sense of justice—send into the streets this aged mother he loved and worshiped—his own mother who worked, sacrificed, gave all to make them happy?

Or, here in this thundering climax, did destiny force Eddie to drive from his home this wife who had made him so happy—had borne his child—and whose embraces were still an ecstasy he craved like dope?

You simply must read for yourself MY MOTHER AND MY WIFE—a helpless husband's own true story of how his wife and mother—loving him with equal fierceness—dragged his soul through hell and how he finally solved this terrible domestic tangle, the like of which has wrecked a million homes.

Argue In Evening, Judge's Advice To Married Couples

Dauphin County Judge Gives Married People Good Advice

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 1.—If you must quarrel with your husband or wife, do it in the evening. That's the best time for family spats, according to Judge Frank B. Wickersham, of the Dauphin county court.

If you quarrel in the evening, the judge advised a woman in his court, "you can sleep it over and change your mind by morning."

Judge Wickersham delivered the judicial apothegm to Mrs. Gladys Sparks, who appeared to ask release of her husband, Furman, from jail, where he had been sentenced on a charge of assault and battery. The battery, Mrs. Sparks said, followed a family quarrel.

Yale To Brighten Old, Unsightly Scheff Corner

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May, 1.—Shefftown's unsightly corner is to be spruced up immediately. Yale has given orders for the immediate destruction of the more than a century old brick dwelling house at Prospect and Grove streets that has been headquarters of Sheffield Scientific school ever since that department of Yale was established. Immediately will follow a group of buildings winging out from another tall tower, to house the scientific school in the most elaborate fashion.

Generations of Yale men have known Sheff headquarters which stands at the head of College street and for thirty years has contrasted with elaborate Woolsey Hall and stately Byers hall, on diagonally opposite corners.

The old building once had a barrel-like structure above its cupola. In the course of time it was discovered that the barrel was not the water tower it seemed to be but housed a telescope. The telescope has been moved to Bingham hall at Chapel and College streets.

The barrel came down two years ago, and then plans were started for a new building. Part of it is to be called Strathcona Hall, after the late Canadian railroad magnate who provided a professorship for Yale. The tower is to rise many stories above the street but the wings will be four stories, only, in height. The building, like other modern structures at Yale, will be of what is here called collegiate-Gothic, or by some, synthetic Gothic.

Zantinger, Borie, and Medary, of Philadelphia, have drawn the plans for the building, and a New Haven concern has the contract to erect the structure. The cost will run to a million dollars or more.

The building is the first new structure Sheffield Scientific school has had in a long time, but it is only the forerunner of others, it is believed here. For one thing a new Vanderbuilt quadrangle is expected to appear shortly just down Grove street from the new headquarters building.

The Vanderbilt quadrangle is to be a part of the new Yale house plan, and its site is already completely in the possession of the University.

SCRANTON, Pa., May 1.—Payment of assessments to aid unemployed miners in this region will begin early in May, it was stated here by mine union officials who completed plans for assessment of the working membership of all locals to aid the unemployed.

It is hoped that a fund of $35,000 will be collected by working miners to assist fellow-workers who are idle and in dire need.

Claims College Mark For Working-His-Way

(International News Service)

BOSTON, Mass., May 1.—The honor of being the champion "work-his-way" student at Boston university went to Wallace R. Marden, senior, of Lawrence.

Although taking a heavier academic schedule than the average student, Marden earned more than $5,000 during three years of part-time work.

The secret of his unusual income is that he does not mind holding five or six jobs at one time.

Marden arrives at school daily in an automobile and is engaged in various jobs ranging from a pantryman to artist's model.

While at high school, Marden was forced to complete his classes in two-year stretches working two years between his sophomore and junior years at Methusen high school.

Marden averages five and six jobs at the same time in part time work I' handles four furnace jobs beside his building manager work which earns him $30 a week and proctors at civil service and law school examinations. He also finds time to keep up fraternity affiliations and plays in the university band.

Marden is an accomplished musician capable of playing the piano saxophone and clarinet but the crowded musicians' field forced him to find other employment in order to work his way through college.

After he is graduated he plans to enter Harvard business school.

Eight Letter Word Causes Row At Bee

(International News Service)

MONTICELLO, Ind., May 1.—Parents of grade school pupils in seven towns near here are discussing the correct spelling of the word meaning "to send to a destination" as this word was the deciding factor in an intertown spelling match here.

Evelyn Davis of Burnettsville and Lolo Farrell of Round Grove Township, each with a host of friends were the surviving contestants in a 5th and 6th grade spelling bee when the word was given.

"Dispatch,"

"D-I-S-P-A-T-C-H," spelled Evelyn and gave a dictionary as her authority.

"D-E-S-P-A-T-C-H," said Lola and pointed out her way was approved by McCall's speller.

The decision was given to Lola.

Then the storm broke.

Protests from the spectators became so loud that the authoritative spelling in the future will be probably that of the dictionary it was said. However, one dictionary, compiled in 1930, gives both dispatch and despatch as correct.

PLYMOUTH ROCK

The inscription upon Plymouth rock is the date, 1620. The rock split in 1774. On July 4, 1834, a part of it was removed to Pilgrim hall Plymouth. The other half was covered with a granit canopy and surrounded by an iron fence. This part may still be seen in the harbor.

Lawrence County Farms And Farmers

By H. R. McCulloch, County Agent

NEED LAMBS TO ENTER EARLY SUMMER MARKET.

Livestock growers have found that it pays to shorten the period between birth and marketing of their meat animals. This demands good care and proper feeding.

With this observation sheep producers of Lawrence County will get better returns from their lamb crop this year if plans are made now to have the youngsters ready for market as early as possible.

Reports reveal that about one and one-half million more lambs will come out of the range country next fall than for several years. Because of the dry conditions in the southern sheep country, the early lamb crop there will be light. The best time to market this year will be when this light early crop is being sold. Farmers in the range country who depend entirely on grass to finish their lambs will not be able to enter this early market.

A study of the Chicago market for 10 years, in which the returns from lambs marketed in June are compared with the quotations on October offerings, shows an average of $2.40 a hundred pounds in favor of the June lambs.

To get the young lambs ready for early marketing grain feeding will be necessary. The following mixture is recommended: 300 pounds of cracked corn, 100 pounds of crushed oats, and 50 pounds of a pea cake. A creep should be constructed so that the lambs will have access to this grain mixture at all time.

WHEN CORN IS SHORT BARLEY CAN BE USED.

Where there is a threatened shortage of corn for feed before the next harvest barley can be used as a substitute.

A pound of barley is equal to the same amount of corn in feeding value, and this grain can be used in all rations in place of corn.

It will be ready for harvest about the same time as wheat and on a good soil in a normal year will produce from 30 to 50 bushels an acre.

Barley is an excellent crop in which to seed grass and legumes, especially alfalfa. It is a rich land crop and will not thrive on soils low in fertility or high in acidity. Preparation of the seedbed and fertilization of the land is the same for barley as for oats. The rate of seeding is two bushels an acre.

Two types of barley are available. Both kinds are bearded but one is barbed and the other is barbless. The smooth bearded barley is only slightly more disagreeable to handle than bearded wheat or rye.

Comfort and Velvet are two good varieties of the barbless barley. The best yielding barbed varieties are Alpha and Wisconsin Pedigreed. Alpha is an excellent variety to seed with oats. It matures later than other varieties and therefore comes more nearly to ripening at the same time as oats.

CONTROL DISEASE BY FEEDING MILK MASH.

A 40 per cent milk mash mixture has been found valuable in treating coccidiosis in chicks.

In making up the mixture, 40 pounds of powdered milk, 30 pounds of yellow cornmeal, 20 pounds of ground rolled oats, and 10 pounds of bran are used. This mixture has a protein content of approximately 23 per cent.

As soon as the first symptoms of the disease appear, take all feed away from the birds and give them access to only the 40 per cent milk mash and water. Usually a 5-day treatment will be enough. Nothing but condensed milk to eat and water to drink for a 2-day period also has given beneficial results. Milk sugar products have also given good results.

TRANSPLANTING MUST BE DONE CAREFULLY.

Some plants are easily transplanted because of their fibrous roots. Among these are cabbage, lettuce, cauliflower, onion, tomato, pepper, eggplant, and celery.

Certain precautions are necessary to prevent losses when transplanting from the coldframe or seedbed to the garden.

The plants should be watered well before they are distributed.

If possible a ball of earth should be kept about the roots as the plants are lifted or the roots should be dipped in thick muddy water.

Water should be added to the hold after setting the plant, if the soil is dry.

Moist soil should be packed firmly about the roots of the plant and dry soil scattered loosely on the surface of the ground.

Protection from direct sunlight, to avoid wilting, may be given by shading the plant for a few days after transplanting.

Cloudy days or late afternoons are the best times for transplanting.

INFORMATION ON FARM WATER POWER AVAILABLE.

Where natural conditions are favorable it is now possible for a farmer to have his own water power plant. Agricultural engineers of the United States Department of Agriculture find that there is a rather general tendency, however, for farmers to overestimate the amount of power that can be generated from a stream. Another common mistake is to underestimate the expense necessary to develop water power on the farm.

A new publication on farm water power, Farmers' Bulletin 1658-F, just issued by the department, tells of a number of successful plants and gives suggestions for those who expect to install such plants. Many of the examples cited and the illustrations used are from Pennsylvania. Copies of the bulletin may be obtained free by writing to the United States Department of Agriculture, Washington, D. C.

Since Using Nu-Erb I Am Feeling Better Than For Two Years

New Castle Man Tells Of Splendid Results Derived From Use Of The New Herbal Medicine

Every day men and women of this city, are telling the Nu-Erb Man at Eckerd's Cut Rate Store, of the wonderful results they have obtained through using Nu-Erb. Persons who suffer from stomach, kidney, liver or bowel disorders, are urged to at least give this medicine a trial. In thousands of cases, it has proved to do even more than is claimed for it. The following is the recent experience of Mr. A. T. Powers, 530 Harbor St., New Castle, Pa.

"My stomach gave me a lot of trouble for about two years. I suffered continually with indigestion and gas that formed after each meal. There were times that these gas formations caused pains around my heart, causing shortness of breath. My bowels were irregular and my appetite seemed to have failed me. I began to feel all out of sort and after reading and hearing of what Nu-Erb had done for others, I decided, as a last resort, to see if it would do the same for me.

"From the very first bottle, I began to notice a great improvement in my health. My appetite improved and my bowels became as regular as ever. The dyspepsia and indigestion after my meals became less and less frequent and now I am never bothered by gas pains, or distress around my heart. Even though the first bottle gave me so much relief, I have continued using it as I am firmly convinced the Nu-Erb is a medicine of unusual value to use as a Spring tonic at this time of the year."

Eckerd's Cut Rate Store, is the only place in New Castle where Nu-Erb may be purchased. Go see the Nu-Erb Man now located there and let him explain to you the merits of this remarkable medicine.

Too Many Marriages, Two Years In Jail

(International News Service)

LAFAYETTE, Ga., May 1.—Three brides in three months and the judge put John Tucker behind the bars for two years.

Tucker, who apparently was quite intrigued with the business of becoming a benedict, was convicted of bigamy and sentenced to two years in jail.

Tucker, who is 23, first became married in Alabama. Thirty days later he married Miss Alice Kutz of LaFayette. Sixteen days later he tripped to the altar with Miss Willie Cash of Rossville.

He gave a different name at each of the three ceremonies. The facts were revealed in evidence at his trial.

Bitter Warfare Against Bandits Rages In China

Nationalist Government Wages Death Struggle Against Chinese "Reds"

By JOHN GOETTE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PEKING, May 1.—The Nationalist government is now waging a life and death struggle against the Chinese "Red" bandits who are strongly entrenched in the Yangtze Valley provinces.

The issue of this armed struggle is vital to the earnings of thousands of American investors for such firms as the Standard Oil Company and the Texas Oil Company and other American concerns are the repeated victims of the Communist campaign against "imperialism."

Hordes of Chinese communists are ravaging the property of these American firms in the provinces of Hunan, Hupeh, Kiangsi and Honan. The menace is so active that President Chiang Kai-Shek, personally directing his army has mobilized some 300,000 troops and scores of the latest model American bombing and scouting planes, as well as his naval units for action against the Communists.

According to experienced American military observers in China there are at least ten Red Armies operating in the provinces of the Yangtze Valley. These armies are splendidly organized, extremely mobile, and equipped with rifles, machine guns and light artillery. They even affect red unifomrs. They move across the countryside in groups of as many as 15,000, and their leaders are of such importance that the Chinese government has offered a reward of $50,000 per head. One of these Red Army leaders was educated in Europe so that he is much above average as to experience and intelligence.

The methods of these brigands are swift and dramatic. The city of Kian in central Kiangsi province was invested by a Red Army and a communistic government installed. A "contribution" of $50,000 was demanded from the local Standard Oil Company's agent. No such cash was available, whereupon the entire stock was confiscated and auctioned on the streets at prices fantastically below market values. The proceeds were pocketed by the communists who loaded the unsold stocks of oil on junks ready for their departure which came after a few days of occupation of Kian.

At Nanchowding the Standard Oil Company lost thousands of dollars worth of stock, while the Texas Oil Company was the victim during the Red raid on Tsingshih when their oil was sold at auction.

The fact that President Chiang is leading his 300,000 seasoned troops against the ten Red Armies does not arouse as much hope for the relief of American interests as it might. It is not always easy to force government troops to fight their fellow Chinese communists, especially if they are in arrears in pay as is generally the case.

The immediate future is certainly not too bright for the marketing of American commodities beyond the treaty ports of China.

Fortune Prize In Battle To Prove Man Dead

MEMPHIS, May 1.—One of the queerest cases in Tennessee court is expected to be heard this spring when a court fight will be resumed to prove that Joseph W. Martin, missing heir of a $1,000,000 estate is dead and that partition of the estate should begin.

The court hearing will be in the form of a petition to remove from the records depositions taken from Clarence Eldridge, Los Angeles, promotor and former resident of Memphis, that the missing man is a resident of Quintana Roo, Mexico.

The dispositions disclosed that Martin, who dropped from sight 18 years ago in London, England, was living on a ranch in the fastness of the jungles; that he had the belief that relatives and officers were hunting for him and was fearful of his identity being known and further that Eldridge and he discussed Memphis events.

Two young Memphis attorneys early this year deserted their book-lined offices, donned cocked hats and boots and journeyed hundreds of miles from the Mexican coast in search of Martin. After 30-days trip they returned, empty handed and without clues regarding the missing cotton man whose evening cape and cane were found on the banks of the Thames river.

Martin's brother, Hill Martin, who paid debts of his brother totaling approximately $80,000 and not a direct heir to the $1,000,000 William H. Wood estate, is fighting to have the despositions kept in court records. If they are removed from the records Hill Martin will receive nothing from the estate which under the will of the deceased man will be partitioned between the surviving grandchildren of Wood, four brothers and sisters.

Should Hill Martin be successful in his proof that his brother is not dead and the estate be ordered partitioned five ways, Hill Martin will be legally permitted to sue for the $80,000 he has paid to his missing brother's creditors.

TOWNS AND CITIES

These Drugs May Cause Eruptions

Suspect Medicine If You Break Out In Rash

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

It would be possible to argue that drugs which cause skin eruptions are the best kind to take because when you are getting too much of them you can stop. And this would be a sound argument if every layman who is constantly taking medicines knew whether the one he was taking did cause a breaking out on the skin. But this knowledge is so widely distributed, and the consequence is that some innocent victim may break out in a rash from his medicine and, not knowing the cause of the eruption, go ahead taking the drug.

Here is a list of the drugs which most frequently cause skin disease, the part of the body affected and the character of the eruption.

Acetanilid—General redness, all over the body. In people with weak hearts the lips turn blue.

Antipyrine—Red lumps or red blush, with some itching.

Antitoxin — Hives, red itching wheals all over the body. Frequently after serum treatments.

Arsenic—Desquamation with uncomfortable red rash over body.

Belladonna—May follow application of belladonna plasters. Intense redness.

Bromides—Described yesterday.

Chloral Hydrate—Red lumps or rash over body. Itching and burning.

Copaiba—Very common eruption which covers entire body and then peels off.

Cubebs—Rare. Much like copaiba rash.

Iodine or Iodine Compounds—Common effect. Appears in many forms. Usually pimples over face, shoulders and back.

Iodoform—Severe blistering rash.

Quinine—Quite frequent. Dark red hemorrhages under skin, over back and trunk, sometimes arms and face. Has many forms. Some people are very susceptible to it.

Salicyclic acid, and the salicylates including aspirin and salol—General redness over the body, sometimes forming distinct red spots which ulcerate. This effect of these drugs is uncommon, however.

Silver nitrate or argyroll—Even when used in the nose, can cause argyria, a deep metallic, pigmentation of the skin. People who have been told to use argyroll in the nose and keep on doing it without doctor's orders sometimes, but not frequently, develop this.

Sulphonal. This does not occur frequently any more, as sulphonal has been replaced by many better hypnotics. General redness of skin.

Turpentine—Itching with either a general red rash or raised red spots on the skin or entire body.

Veronal—Does not occur very frequently. Sometimes causes little spots—water blisters—on the back and trunk. No itching.

The treatment in all cases is, of course, to stop the use of the drug. Sometimes, as in the case of arsenic, treatments in the vein which are effective can be carried on by a physician.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Six pamphlets by Dr. Clendening can now be obtained by sending 10 cents in coin for each and a self-addressed, stamped envelope, to Dr. Logan Clendening, in care of this paper, or Central Press Association, 1435 East Twelfth street, Cleveland, O. The pamphlets are: "Indigestion and Constipation," "Reducing and Gaining," "Infant Feeding," "Instructions for the Treatment of Diabetes," "Feminine Hygiene" and "The Care of the Hair and Scalp."

Hoover To Be Seventh To Visit Springfield

(International News Service)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., May 1.—President Hoover will be the seventh president to visit this city during his term of office, when he comes to rededicate Lincoln's tomb, June 17.

President U. S. Grant officiated at the dedication of the tomb.

Presidents Rutherford B. Hayes, Benjamin Harrison and William McKinley were Springfield guests while in office. Theodore Roosevelt dedicated the state arsenal here and William Howard Taft, 20 years ago, gave the chief speech at a Lincoln day banquet.

Woodrow Wilson visited Springfield as a presidential candidate; Calvin Coolidge was here when a vice-president; so that every man who has occupied the presidential chair in the past 34 years, with the exception of Warren G. Harding, has been a guest of the Illinois capital.

Nearly 9,500 Men Working On Roads

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 1.—Nearly 9,500 men are now at work on state roads, the state highway department announced here. Construction work, under 59 contracts, has been started by the department.

IOWA GRANDMA WINS DEGREE AT SORBONNE

By ALICE LANGELIER
International News Service Staff Correspondent

PARIS, May 1.—An Iowa grandma has just been awarded a very high French honor. Mrs. Mecca M. Varney of Glenwood, Ia., has just received her doctorate from the University of Paris with the mention "very honorable".

Mrs. Varney came to Paris four years ago with her son and daughter-in-law who also studied at the Sorbonne. She was obliged to learn sufficiently well to do a large amount of research work, write it and speak it in order to defend her thesis before the judges. She wrote the book "L'Influence des Femmes sur Auguste Comte" entirely alone and took it before the jury without any polishing up by French scholars.

Perhaps it was this sincerity and frankness that won their hearts. At any rate, they all pronounced her thesis a very sound piece of writing and found that the American grandma from Iowa had treated Comte and the various influence of women in his life with such merit that the document was put in the class of real literature.

Mrs. Varney is an ordained minister in the Universalist and Christian churches and is the widow of Chaplain Charles E. Varney, well-known in Chautauqua circles in America.

For Succes In Bridge Speak Soft To Partner

(International News Service)

BOSTON, May 1.—If you want to win, and if you want to have a lot of fun playing contract bridge, never chide your opponent.

Authority for that statement was none other than Dr. Milton C. Work national authority on the "ins" and "outs" of the game.

"If you are interested in winning" he advised, "the worst thing you can do for your own success is to unsettle your own partner by unnecessary criticism, to let your partner think that the last play was faulty.

"The partner who has seen a disapproving look or an annoyed toss of the head becomes nervous and in the next hand still ponders over the last hand, seeking to see if there was any excuse or some other way to have played the hand.

"If you cannot comment flatteringly on your partner's hand change the subject. That is one of the greatest recipes for success in contract bridge."

VALUE INCREASED

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May, 1.—Connecticut farms may be abandoned, and they are to a considerable degree, but the fact is a thing to be optomistic about, according to W. L. Slate, director of the state's agricultural experiment station here. "Since 1880 the number of farms and the area under cultivation in Connecticut have declined constantly, but in the fifty-year period past the annual value of products from the land has increased four times," Slate declared that "In a state of progressive manufacturers we find progressive farmers, likewise. Our farmers have adjusted their business to meet changing conditions."

Soldiers' Graves Will Be Marked

(International News Service)

BELLEFONTE, Pa., May 1.—A dozen graves of Revolutionary soldiers will be marked with suitable memorials if a move begun by Civil War veterans and the Daughters of the American Revolution in Centre county is successful.

More than a dozen Revolutionary soldiers are buried in the county, officials of the D. A. R. said but difficulty has been encountered in locating some graves because they have been ploughed over or not maintained and all traces of them lost.

Prisoners Give Warden Watch And Back-Pay

(International News Service)

McAlester, Okla., May 1.—Grateful because he had softened the prison rules by making convicts work on the prison rockpile instead of putting them in solitary confinement as extreme punishment, prisoners in the state prison here presented retiring acting-warden B. F. Van Dyke a watch and $1200 back pay that the state auditor refused to pay him.

The prisoners gave Van Dyke the $1200 from money that was being held in trust for them at the prison.

Employees of the prison gave Van Dyke a traveling bag and a brief case as he left the prison to go to Mangum, Okla., to resume his law practice.

Praise Co-eds For Their Poise And Social Ease

American Girls Are Said To Excel English Students

(International News Service)

BOSTON, May 1. — American girls far exceed the English girl students in poise and self possession, according to Dr. Mabel Buer of the University of Reading, England, who with other foreign representatives of the American Association of University Women, made a study of the Boston University plan of co-operative housing for girl students, following the fiftieth anniversary celebration here.

Madame Aslang Muller, of the University of Copenhagen, Denmark, was amazed by the responsibility taken by the girl students in the regulation of their duties.

"Nobody in our country," she said, "has even thought that the girls could run their own house. Here you operate it by yourself. Your house mother is merely a chaperone. In Denmark, the girls are all taken care of."

Madame Muller explained that the situation in Denmark was different from that in American Universities because of the fact that tuition in Denmark is free and the students have to plan only for board and lodging. She said that she hoped to organize a system similar to that in effect at Boston University.

Dr. Isabella Grassi, of Rome, Italy, graduate of the University of Rome, said that the universities there have always been open to men and women since the thirteenth century, but that only graduate work was done. She marvelled at the social ease of the Boston University girl students, an ease unknown in Italy.

Another visitor to Boston University, Miss Marian Talbot, one of the first women to be graduated from the B. U. College of Liberal Arts, 1880, plans to return to Constantinople where she will be president of the Constantinople Woman's College. She has served as Dean of Women at the University of Chicago.

Tank Star In Jungle Hunts Chewing Gum

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, May 1.—Phil Druiding, captain of the Northwestern University water polo team in 1927 and one of the leading swimmers in the Big Ten conference, is searching the jungles of the Malay peninsula for a possible base of raw products for a chewing gum company.

Druiding told in a recent letter of penetrating into the heart of a jungle where no white man had ever been seen before. At times, his party followed elephant trails, but often the members had to cut their own path, traveling only three or four miles a day.

Bo'Broadway

by JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK, May 1.—I don't want the scientific world to get sore at me for keeping on finding fault with it; but really, something ought to be done about the activities of the Bulgy Browed Boys who insist upon traveling up and down the world wagging wise whiskers and making the rest of us miserable.

Here we are with Summer coming on apace, most of us dreaming dreams of green fields and running brooks, and some Scientist steps out with the announcement that even trees have halitosis.

They contract the disability, it seems, as a result of the invasion of wood-decaying fungi which gain entrance through dead branches or holes in the trunk.

Sweet thought, isn't it!

NOTHING NEW.

Educators are alarmed, it is said, at a "new" variety of racketeering that is invading the elementary schools. The racket consists in larger boys bullying smaller youngsters who, "if unable to come across with a nickle or a dime, get a kick on the shins."

In this, the pedagogs see "another result of the influence of motion pictures and tabloid literature."

It's the fashion to blame every social and economic ill on the movies, the tabloids, Prohibition and The War—all of which, like the ills complained of, are themselves nothing but manifestations of the onward shove of evolution.

As for the "new" racket the schoolmarms have discovered: Wherein does it differ from the old racket that prompts nations to fortify their costs and to maintain armies and navies?

It's the ancient theory of "might makes right."

ONLY MEMORIES.

A Fifth Avenue department store has in its employ a plump, pink, white-haired lad on floor duty, somewhere between gloves and lingerie. He's eighty years old and has just rounded out his seventieth year with the firm. A decade or so ago they tried to place him on a shelf with a pension tucked in his pocket, but the old gentleman objected. He is happy in the thought that his presence, daily, in the shop, goes a long way toward keeping the wheels in motion. And these particular merchants, being kindly gentlemen, with a bit of imagination, have grabbed at the chance of making a fellow human being happy.

The old employees is a modern of moderns. He recalls Mrs. Abraham Lincoln, Lily Langtry and Lillian Russell—women whose names once meant something but now have a touch of pathos about them.

What Time does to most reputations may be discerned in the supercilious tone the old department store employee adopted in speaking of Lillian Russell.

"I've laid eyes on better looking parties than Lillian Russell," he says. "The girl of today suits me right down to the ground, by George! I never had much use for those long-skirted females, anyway."

That point of view may account for the years he has crowded into his span.

MIGHTY TRUTH.

Speaking of department stores.

One of them recently advertised long gloves for women "priced so low that you can afford the seven pairs a leading fashion magazine considers essential this season."

That was news to me, that seven pairs of gloves are "essential this season. Inquiry revealed that it's absolutely necessary to have TWO pairs ow "twenty-buttons" to complete the formality of the evening gowns; TWO pairs of "sixteen-buttons" to go with the short-sleeve dresses, and THREE pairs of "twelve-buttons" for three-quarter sleeve coats and suits and long-sleeve afternoon dresses.

And that gives me a slant on the female portion of The Capital of The Commonplace that I didn't have before.

I have always maintained that there's no better guage on the morals, manners and general standards of a community than its newspaper and magazine advertisements.

The whole story is told there, condensed and clairfied—a thousand times more accurate and interesting than any professional appraiser could narrat it.

By their ads ye shall know them.

UNFAITHFUL DOBBIN.

An agent of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty of Animals handed an equestrain a "ticket" the other day. In court the agent told the magistrate that the horse had recognized his uniform and had voluntarily stopped so that the rider might be served with the summons.

"Pretty smart nag," said the magistrate. "I suppose if I let you go on, you'd tell me that he puts out his tail for a left turn. But if he stopped so that you could serve his boss with a "ticket" he lacks loyalty, and lacking that, it doesn't make any difference how smart he is. Summons dismissed."

Many Motorists Are Suspended

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 1.—One hundred and forty-two Pennsylvania motorists lost their driving cards during the week ending April 23, the state bureau of motor vehicles announced here today. Of this number, 40 cards were revoked and 102 were suspended.

During the same week, operating privileges were restored to 68 drivers. Revocations to date this year total 840 and suspensions 991, the bureau announced.

There were no New Castle motorists included in the list of revocations or suspensions, and none had their license privileges restored.

Sparks From New Castle Motor Club

ATTENTION MOTORISTS

A nation-wide movement for safer driving, is being launched. The campaign calls upon motorists to adopt a safety pledge and then live up to it, in hopes that by wider individual appreciation of the needs for safe driving—which means obeying the traffic law, keeping the vehicle in good condition and using common sense, the American traffic toll of 32,500 lives annually can be greatly reduced. It isn't so much the failure of the law or the failure of the automobile as it is the failure of the motorist that causes accidents on the highway.

The new campaign will be watched with a great deal of interest.

PROGRESS IN DRIVERS' LICENSES

Two state legislatures have just passed drivers' license laws conforming closely to Act 111 of the uniform Vehicle Code recommended by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety. One has passed a similar law not requiring examinations of new drivers. In one State an excellent bill has passed one house and has been favorably reported in the other. In four States, like measures have been favorably reported by legislative committees. In four other the bills have been badly weakened by amendments. In four, action is still pending. And in ten other legislatures now in session or which have been in session this year, either no license bill has been introduced or such a bill has failed to pass.

OPENING AND CLOSING DATES FOR THE NATIONAL PARKS

With every indication that 1931 will be a year of heavy motor travel, preparations are being made for a banner year in the major national parks and gates will shortly be thrown open to America's touring millions, according to Ralph W. Bolsinger, President of the New Castle Motor Club.

Mr. Bolsinger declared that nearly three million motorists are expected to visit the national parks during the present year. He announced the schedule of opening and closing dates as follows:

Acadia, Maine, open all year.
Bryce Canyon, Utah, June 1st, to Sept. 25th.
Crater Lake, Oregon, July 1st to Sept. 20th.
General Grant, California, open all year.
Glacier, Montana, June 15th to Sept. 15th.
Grand Canyon, Arizona, open all year.
Grand Teton, Wyoming, June 20th to Sept 19th.
Hawaii, Hawaiian Islands, open all year.
Hot Springs, Arkansas, open all year.
Lassen Volcania, California, June 1st to Sept. 15th.
Mesa Verde, California, May 15th to October 15th.
Mount McKinley, Alaska, June 1st to Sept 15.
Mount Rainier, Washington, June 15th to Sept. 15th.
Paltt, Oklahoma, open all year.
Rocky Mountain, Colorado, open all year. (Summer season June 15th to Sept. 20th.)
Seqoia, California, open all year.
Wind Cave, South Dakota, open all year. (Summer season June 1st to Sept. 30th.)
Yellowstone, Wyoming, June 20th to Sept. 19th.
Yosemite, California, open all year.
Zion, Utah, open all year.

CHANGE TYPE FOR OPERATORS CARDS

Considerable apprehension has been felt by motor car operators over the change made in the style of type used in printing the license numbers on the left hand corner of the cards.

Recently the Motor Vehicle License Bureau installed new printing machines, which use a slightly different style of type for printing these numbers. Somehow or other, the rumor got out that someone was counterfeiting license cards, and many inquiries have been received at the Motor Club office as a result.

These cards, bearing the different sized numbers are absolutely all right and motorists who have been afraid that they have a fake operators license may rest assured that any card received from the state bureau at Harrisburg is a bona fide card.

MANY OLD CARS ON HIGHWAYS

The number of old cars on the road this year places a particular premium on careful driving, President Ralph W. Bolsinger of the New Castle Motor Club warned today.

Mr. Bolsinger said:

"There is an aftermath of the business decline through which the country has gone that has a vital bearing on safety on the highways. I refer to the large number of old automobiles that are still in use.

"Not long ago, the Research Department of the American Automobile Association brought out the fact that there are in the United States today, some 8,000,000 automobiles which were purchased prior to 1925.

"Included among these are hundreds of thousands of decrepit cars. Many of them were probably stored away during the winter months but will make their appearance on the highways with the advent of the touring season. Assuming that as a rule, the owners will put them in fairly good condition, there are many that will still be a menace.

"Even if considerable progress in replacements takes place within the next few months, we are certain to have a large residue of potentially dangerous cars on the road during the coming season. No motorist can overlook this condition. It is a condition that places a maximum premium on safe and sane driving and unless the situation is constantly kept in mind, we are very likely to see a large rise in the curve of accidents during the opening months of the 1931 touring season.

"It might be said that owners of old models should take particular precautions to have the braking systems of these cars in order. The brakes on such cars are often not enclosed and become easily water-soaked, a cause of much trouble. To keep brakes of that type dry and reasonably efficient, they should be used as often as possible in order to squeeze the water out of them."

DO YOU KNOW

California collected $39,988,920 from gasoline tax in 1930.

Five states, namely, Connecticut, Missouri, Wisconsin, Rhode Island, New York and the District of Columbia, have the lowest gas tax rates, two cents a gallon.

Chauffeur and operator permits netted 35 states a total of $17,680,898 in 1930.

The Steubenville (Ohio) Automobile club recently gave three brothers a routing which covers 14,918 miles and includes all state capitals.

OILING SEASON STARTS

Although main trails are comparatively free from detour obstructions, the annual surface treatment program, known to motorists as "OILING," is only a few days in the offing. Beginning May 4th, crews will be at work on many stretches of macadam with oil and chips (broken stone).

The Spring portion of the program is scheduled for completion by June 30th according to the department's estimate which is maximum. Allowance is made for bad weather so that continued fair weather would enable the crews to "beat" their schedules.

The warning is sounded again that all these factors must be considered in advising motorists concerning oiling schedules. When you consult the Highway Department's detour and oil map, bear in mind that rain may have suspended oiling for several days, so that the same stretch may be scheduled for the following week. Fair weather in the same case, may have enabled the crews to complete their work and make the road "dry" ahead of time. Department markings on stretches to be oiled. Signs are to be placed "Road to be oiled within the next week," and "End of proposed oiling."

Attention is directed to the many delightful sections of Pennsylvania where fruit blossoms are to be seen at this season. The same is true of rhododendron and dogwood. The South Mountain areas, in the vicinity of Gettysburg and Arendtsville are notable examples. The loop: Gettysburg, Waynesboro, Greencastle, Chambersburg, Biglerville, Gettysburg has no peer for scenic effect at this season.

LIMIT ON BRIDGE

Heavy hauling vehicles are advised that the bridge between Kittanning and Applewood on U. S. Route No. 422 is limited to 12,000 pounds gross weight, including vehicle and load. The bridge is being replaced and is on a temporary location supported by specially constructed false work. Detours, so far as can be anticipated, will offer very little annoyance to the majority of motorists in Pennsylvania this season. None that have appeared in the department of highways report thus far have been of a serious nature. The present State and Highway administrations have emphatically declared against any great amount of replacement work, which means that main trails, already hard-surfaced throughout, should be almost free from detour blockades.

Bad Boy Racketeers Puzzle City Fathers

(International News Service)

WINDSOR, Ont., May 1—Juvenille racketeering, encouraged by a $50 reward for information leading to convictions of anyone turning in a false fire alarm, is presenting a perplexing problem to the Windsor city council.

Alderman Charles E. Henri pointed out that it was "easy for a gang of boys to take advantage of the reward system."

"One bold boy," the alderman said, "will pull the alarm and his friends will report him. In most instances, a juvenille arrested for turning in a false alarm will only be reprimanded by police."

"Then the gang of boys," the alderman concluded. "Split the reward among the victim and themselves."

Despite the contention of Henri, it was decided to allow the reward to stand.

WHY TAKE PILLS?

THERE'S no need to drug yourself with laxatives when constipation can be overcome by eating a delicious cereal. Mr. F. C. Aminsen, Kennyhole, Washington, writes:

"I suffered with chronic constipation for many years and was compelled to use pills every night, but since I get your Kellogg's ALL-BRAN it works fine. I would not be without it. I was so deathly sick of taking pills every night. Now it is so different. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN works so naturally and is pleasant to take."

Just eat two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily. Relief is guaranteed. It is the natural, safe way.

Delicious with milk or cream, fruits or honey added. Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also furnishes iron for the blood. In the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

German Police Dog Proves Title

Refuses To Leave Pittsburgh Jail After Prisoner Converses In German

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., May 1.—Not every German police dog (and they all really aren't "police dogs—most of them are shepherds) can prove that he is both German and police as did the newest addition to the Allegheny county jail staff.

Early one morning, the dog appeared at the jail doors. He helped officers rout more than a score of "panhandlers" who daily take up a station outside the jail entrance. He guarded the portal, permitting only policemen to enter.

That over, he wandered into the prison building.

From a cell, a prisoner addressed him in German. The dog halted, pricked up his ears, moved over to the cell and refused to stir while the prisoner conversed with him.

Then he refused to leave the prison at all. He attached himself to the German-speaking prisoner and "tagged" him about the jail.

"Himmel," says Warden McNeil. "Unless someone calls and claims him let the dog stay."

Alienation Of Affection Is Charge In Suit

Mrs. Esther D. McMahon Is Seeking To Recover $25,000 From Mrs. Emery

ALLEGED REFERENCES TO "RICH MAMA" MADE

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Hendrix Tell Of Seeing Shadows Through The Blinds

Alienation of her husband's affections is charged by Mrs. Esther D. McMahon in her $25,000 damage suit against Mrs. M. Belle Emery, widow of the late Lyle G. Emery, in a suit which was taken up before Judge James A. Chambers at court Thursday afternoon. In the family circle it is alleged that D. M. McMahon, the husband, referred to the other woman in the case as the "Rich Mama."

Mrs. Emery, who denies the allegations of Mrs. McMahon, was surrounded by a formidable array of counsel, consisting of Alvah Shoemaker, Walter W. Reynolds and Thomas W. Dickey. Mrs. Emery was attired in a neat black suit with hat to match. At the opposite table sat Mrs. McMahon, also attired in a pretty dark suit with black hat. Her attorneys were Walter Braham and Glenn Berry.

Testimony Barred

Mrs. McMahon was barred from giving many details of her married life, by an act of assembly which protects the marital relation, when it comes to a wife testifying against her husband. She was placed on the stand, however, and was permitted to tell of their marriage, their children, and to assign a reason for leaving the home of her husband.

Further details of her married life were given by her son and her daughter. They told about the references which their father had made to the "Rich Mama" and the "Old Girl." Neighbors were called to tell what a fine housekeeper Mrs. McMahon had been, and how carefully she had looked after the needs of her family.

Neighbors who live near Mrs. Emery's home supplied the details of McMahon's visits to Mrs. Emery. The cross examination sought to bring out that McMahon had business dealings with Mrs. Emery in the sale of an automobile.

Reluctant To Leave

After the case had been opened to the jury, consisting of eleven men and one woman, Judge Chambers made the announcement that any jurors who wished to go home, would be excused tomorrow morning. Usually when such an announcement is made there is a rush of the jurors to get out. It was not so yesterday. The jurors who had heard the opening of the case remained to hear more of it.

The case was opened by the plaintiff calling Mrs. M. Belle Emery for cross examination. She was asked if previous to the filing of the suit, McMahon had stayed all night with her. She said that he had not.

She was then asked if McMahon had visited her at her home, she replied that he had. In answer to a question as to how late he stayed, she said that in two occasions he had stayed until 4 a. m. On other occasions he had left shortly after midnight. Mrs. Emery that it was not later than 12:30 at any time with the exception of the two times mentioned above.

Mrs. McMahon Called

Mrs. Esther D. McMahon, the plaintiff was then called. She testified that she had married D. M. McMahon in Oil City on November 28th 1913. Later they came to New Castle to live. They lived together here since that time and until May 13th, 1930 when Mrs. McMahon left. They have two children, a boy and a girl. Mrs. McMahon gave as a reason for leaving that there had been trouble. Owing to the act of assembly which makes a wife incompelent to testify against her husband in a case of this kind she was not permitted to make any explanation of the trouble.

On cross examination Mrs. McMahon was asked if she knew a man named J. H. Henrix. Objection was raised by plaintiff to further questioning along this line, unless Mrs. McMahon was allowed to tell her full story. The defensce did not press the question and the witness was dismissed.

Daughters Testifies

Sarah McMahon, 15 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. McMahon, testified that she is now staying at her fathers home in the 7th ward. Her father is a railroad man and has the agency for the Auburn automobile. Her mother, she said, left on May 13th, 1930. She said her father had treated her mother cruelly, had called her names and treated her with disrespect.

Asked if she had ever heard her father refer to other women, witness said that she had heard her father tell her mother about a "Rich Mama". Witness said that sometimes her father would be out all night. When her mother spoke about leaving her father told her to get out.

Miss McMahon said that she had frequently answered the phone when a woman called her father. She had learned afterwards that the woman calling was Mrs. Emery. The calls would come nearly every day. They started about the first of January, 1930.

Witness said that she had first seen Mrs. Emery at Mrs. Emery's home last November. She was invited to dinner by Mrs. Emery. Her father and another woman were present.

After her mother left, witness said that her father was away nearly every night. This continued up until the bringing of this suit.

Cross examined witness was asked if her mother had left a note when she went away. She replied that she had. Witness did not know what was in the note.

About two years ago, witness saw her father strike her mother during an argument. She said that her father had coaxed her mother to come back, but that she had refused.

Miss McMahon said her father had sold Mrs. Emery an Auburn car.

Son Tells Story

George McMahon, a son, testified that he had seen Mrs. Emery at his father's garage, when she had her car serviced. He said that his father had called him up from Emery's at least three times. Once around midnight when his father wanted him to come and help start his car. The second time was about 10 o'clock one morning when he went to Emery's to take his father to work. The third time he went to start the car when the battery proved weak.

He heard his father refer to the "Rich Mama" and say to his mother that he was going up to see the "Old Girl."

Witness had heard his father swear at his mother during quarrels.

Mrs. Stella Dripps, Mrs. Helen Humphrey, Mrs. Ethel Thompson and Mrs. Eva Thomas, neighbors, all testified that Mrs. McMahon was a good housekeeper, and looked after her family carefully.

Wife Is Told

Mrs. J. H. Hendrix, who lives near Mrs. Emery's testified that she had first seen Mrs. McMahon at Oil City in November 1930. Her husband, J. H. Hendrix and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Clark were with her when she saw her, Mrs. McMahon came back to New Castle with them. Witness acquainted Mrs. McMahon with what she had seen at the Emery home.

When Mrs. McMahon came to New Castle, she went to the Hendrix home. Mr. McMahon's car was parked near the Emery house. Mrs. McMahon sat up all night watching the Emery house. McMahon left about 11 a. m.

Mrs. Hendrix testified that before going to Oil City, she had observed the actions of Mr. McMahon at the Emery house. She said that Mrs. Emery would prepare a lunch. Mrs. Hendrix could see them eating from a window of her home. After lunch she said that she had seen Mrs. Emery get up after lunch go around the table to McMahon, stroke his hair and kiss him.

"What did he do?" was asked.

"He would love her" was the reply.

Lights Put Out

Mrs. Hendrix said that the lights would usually go out about 10 o'clock. They would go up stairs together. The blinds up stairs were light and shadows could be seen through them, witness said that she could see them getting ready for bed and could see them when they got up by the shadows through the blinds. Once Mrs. Hendrix had seen Mr. McMahon in a back bedroom in his night clothing. The blind in this room was up. Mr. McMahon has an artificial leg. Once Mrs. Henrix said that she had seen Mrs. Emery helping McMahon to strap on his wooden leg.

Reverting to the time when Mrs. McMahon came from Oil City to the Henrix home. Mrs. Henrix said Mrs. McMahon had remained on watch several nights, on the second morning McMahon had left at about 9:30 a. m. The next night he left sometime between 3 and 4 a. m., witness said that she had seen McMahon leave the Emery home around noon and as late as 2:30 p. m.

After the suit was filed Mrs. Hendrix said that McMahon was a little "shy" about coming to the Emery house but it soon "wore off."

Not Good Friends

On cross examination Mrs. Hendrix was asked if she and her husband had not had some trouble with Mrs. Emery. She replied that they had. On one or two occasions the police had been called about a car parked in a driveway.

Witness was examined at some length as to who she and the others had gone to Oil City to see. Mrs. McMahon, she said that they had not gone especially to see Mrs. McMahon but that they were on a trip to see a farm and stopped to see Mrs. McMahon. Witness thought she ought to know what was going on in New Castle.

In answer to questions, Mrs. Hendrix said that a number of friends had observed the actions of McMahon and Mrs. Emery from her home. They had not invited them in for that purpose, but as they were there they couldn't resist the temptation to have a look.

J. H. Hendrix testified that his attention was first called to the Emery case when Mrs. Emery would drive her car home with a man in it. The first time or two he did not see the man in the house, but later he had seen him in the house. He found the man to be D. M. McMahon. The man kept coming regular till late in 1930. McMahon would frequently stay all night. Later witness said McMahon would stay two days and two nights at a time.

It is about 75 feet between the windows of the Hendrix home and the Emery home. After Mr. McMahon and Mrs. Emery would have lunch, Mrs. Emery would get up, go around to McMahon, stroke his hair and kiss him, she seemed to be much more affectionate than he was.

Court adjourned at this point until morning.

UNTANGLE AFFAIRS OF EXILED SHANSI RULER

(International News Service)

TAIYANFU, Shansi, May 1 — A committee sent by the National government is at present attempting to straighten out the tangled affairs of the defeated and exiled Yen Shi-sham, who for nearly twenty years was the dictator and governor of Shansi province.

Governor Yen is alleged to have accumulated a persona! fortune of 80,000,000 Chinese dollars. In addition to that, his recent abortive revolt against the Nanking government is said to have cost him 150,000,000 Chinese dollars which he hurriedly mulcted from the areas under his dominion. Also he issued many millions of dollars worth of paper notes.

Not being a stingy chap, Governor Yen on his departure from his province distributed ten million dollars among his underlings who are still quarreling among themselves over its apportionment.

HIRES CONTRACTOR TO DIG FOR TREASURE

(International News Service)

SYDNEY, N. S., May 1.—Even treasure hunting calls for modern business methods.

A determined attempt is being organized to scour Oak Island near here. Legend has for many years clung to this little bit of land in Mahone Bay as the site of Capt. Kidd's cache of looted plunder from the Spanish Main.

A contract has been signed already with a firm of building contractors to excavate whatever is decided upon.

No Wheat Crop In Mifflin County

(International News Service)

LEWISTOWN, Pa., May 1.—For the first time in many years, many Mifflin county farms will have no wheat crop due to the unprecedented drought of last summer and fall, according to J. C. Thompson county farm agent.

The drought, Thompson said, prevented farmers from plowing and setting in winter wheat and made spring wheat too unprofitable to cultivate. Many wheat fields have been harrowed over and are being planted to barley or oats.

MISTAKE AIDS CONVICT WIN HIS FREEDOM

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, Cal., May 1.—Prison gates of San Quentin will probably open soon for Martin B McCoy, a convict, because a stenographer in the governer's office thought he was the famous Kid McCoy of prize ring fame.

Martin McCoy appealed to Governor Rolph for Commutation of his sentence, but his application was only one of thousands which the governor never sees personally.

His case came under the governor's glance when a newspaperman inquired about the pardon plea of Kid McCoy, also in San Quentin on a manslaughter charge.

A stenographer brought forth from the files the petition of Martin B. McCoy.

'That's not Kid McCoy, but let's se what this prisoner has to say," said the governor.

'I am serving a term of from 1 to 14 years for passing a $15 check," wrote Martin B. McCoy, "I gave the check to a bootlegger in payment for liquor.'

And forthwith, he ordered his secretary to inquire into Martin B. McCoy's case, and if the facts were as stated, he announced he would grant an immediate commutation of sentence to time already served.

McCoy, a structural iron worker, aged 39, was sent to prison from Stanislaus county.

No Bow-Legs Nor Knock-Knees Among Batavian Women

LONDON, May 1. — There are no bow-legs in Batavia, according to Sir John Bland-Sutton, famous British surgeon.

Neither are their knock-knees, or rickets, he discovered while on a world tour with his wife. In fact, Batavia would be an ideal place for Flo Ziegfeld and other producers to recruit their choruses and gather inspiration for theme songs.

"In Batavia," Sir John said," "we found young girls whose fine figures and perfect limbs I would like to see on every young woman in this country.

"No bow-legs or knock-knees there. True, the sun is constant and these young women wore only a native covering which hung from their waists to their knees. There could be no rickets in that country."

Man Injured As He Helps Wife In Linoleum Laying

(International News Service)

MONESSEN, Pa., May 1.—Speak not to Samuel Chuberka of the dangers of house-cleaning. He knows all about them.

Finding his household in the throes of semi-annual renovation, Chuberka offered to help his wife cut the new linoleum for the kitchen floor.

He started, the knife slipped and inflicted a deep gash in one leg. Chuberka was hurried to a hospital to be a patient for several days.

Other husbands point to the incident as a solemn warning to take no hand in house-cleaning.

French Baby's Names Indicated By Law

(International News Service)

PARIS, May 1.—Little French babies cannot always have the favorite names their fond parents have chosen for them. The Government won't let them. Napoleon started this business of criticizing names a long time ago and, like many other things in France, the regulation hasn't changed at all.

A decree was issued during his time giving a precise list of the names to be bestowed upon babies. Protests are not infrequently made, but the decree remains the same. Objections were recently made at the Registry of the 14th ward when the officials refused to register a child under the name of Helyett, taken from a light opera. This name does not appear on Napoleon's official list.

During the war a great many parents met with refusal when they expressed a desire to name their offspring after a distinguished soldiers. "Joffrette," in honor of Marshal Joffre was among these names.

And if Ruth Nichols makes the trans-Atlantic flight we'll simply have to change the name of Lindbergh boulevard.—The St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

Crawford's Salary Check To Be Same

Postmaster Here Is Informed There Will Be No Change In Sum

By ARTHUR C. WIMER
Special Washington Correspondent New Castle News

WASHINGTON, D. C., May 1.—At least hard times don't seem to shrink postmasters' paychecks!

For first assistant postmaster general, Arch Coleman, in a general order has just assured the New Castle postmaster that his present salary will remain unchanged for the next fiscal year—July 1, 1931 to June 30, 1932—unless he receives specific notification to the contrary. And such is not likely!

Mr. Coleman says that postmasters' pay will remain unchanged unless certain post offices are relegated to a lower classification. In the event a first, second or third class office is given a lower rating the postmaster's salary, of course, will be cut.

If a change in class or salary is to be made, the postmaster will be notified by the Post Office Department on or about May 11, 1931, according to Mr. Coleman.

Sweden thinks her new law will make all motorists turn to the right. It is pleasant to find a note of optimism in times like these.—The Akron Beacon Journal.

How Smart Shops Make Glassware Sparkle

BY MARY LEE WORK

A New Easy Way to Wash Dishes And Do 2 Other Hard Jobs In Half the Time

Ever wonder how the smart shops get glassware and fine china to sparkle like jewels on display?

It's really very simple. You can wash your own dishes the same way—get the same results—and actually save half the time you now spend. Here's how they do it.

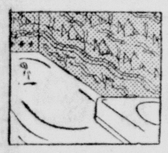
They use a product called Climalene. Your grocer either has it or can obtain it for you.

Ends Grease Scum

Add one teaspoonful of Climalene to a dishpan of water, use only ¼ the amount of soap you now use. It instantly cuts the grease from dishes and cooking utensils, makes glassware sparkle and china gleam. The Climalene-softened water; plus certain bland cleansing agents, cuts your dishwashing time ½ or more—saves ½ or more the soap you now use.

To Avoid Faded, Gray Washings

Use 2 tablespoons of Climalene, and ¼ the usual amount of soap. Clothes emerge soft, spotless, utterly without fading. For soap fade, and soap eat are ended this way. In recent tests men's blue shirts were washed 75 times without noticeable fade; sheerest French hosiery 100 times or more—to prove the blandness of this way.



Banish Bathtub Ring

Add a tablespoonful of Climalene to your bath water. It makes the water soft as summer rain. A quick, rich lather is made with soap. After the bath—just rinse the tub. That is all. There just isn't any "high-water" mark. No scrubbing—no rubbing.

Why It Cleans

Climalene instantly takes all the harshness out of lake water, medium hard water, and hard water. Makes it soft and gentle as rain water. So soft it does the work with ¼ the soap you now use. At the same time, due to certain bland cleansing agents, it instantly DISSOLVES all grease, dirt and grime, and thus cuts your working time ½ or more, in washing, cleaning and in the dishpan.

THE PARENT PROBLEM

May First Children's Health Day

President's Proclamation Dedicates Date To Tots

By GARRY C. MYERS, PH. D.
Head Division Parental Education, Cleveland College, Western Reserve University

By a joint resolution of congress the president of the United States is authorized and requested to proclaim that May Day is Child Health Day.

From the president's proclamation we read:

"Our children have the right to be born in health; to be well throughout babyhood and the preschool years; to be surrounded with moral and spiritual inspiration; to work and to play through primary school with well minds based on well bodies; to enjoy and to profit to the utmost by their higher schooling because of wholesome habits of thought and deed; thence to graduate into adult life, strong in body and inculcated with the sense of fair play and of responsibility for the rights of others."

It is the last phase, "responsibility for the rights of others," which is usually overlooked. In these days of increasing crime, when others' rights even to life is on the wane, we might do well to think about the matter. If all parents could train their children in the habit of feeling and acting toward others as sacred personalities, then all their possessions would be respected by the growing generation. Our jails and prisons would have rooms for rent; by and by they would be empty and deserted.

Then the armored cars which carry money from store to bank, bank to store, bank to bank, could be scrapped. Yesterday I heard of a church whose collection regularly is called for by an armored car. Then I gasped.

Well, we can go on adding armored cars, re-enforcing our police, building bigger jails and penitentiaries. But they won't decrease crime much. Our hope is in the children in the crib.

Thanks to modern medicine and psychology, and a waxing human interest in the child, he is coming slowly to his rights to enjoy health and to develo as an individual. We are proud of this progress. But while our efforts and interest have been turned toward the child as an individual, we have overlooked him as a citizen. We have thought of him as if he lived alone and all others lived to minister unto him. His rights we have placed above the rights of others; at least he thinks so. The average child is not learning "responsibility for the rights of others."

Indeed, it may be safe to say that in proportion as we have progressed in furthering the child's rights as an individual we have regressed in cultivating in him respect for others' rights.

Most of our educational philosophers have pinned their faith to social contacts, group play and activity for teaching citizenship. While no one doubts the value of such influences they alone cannot be depended on for teaching social obligations.

By the time the child is old enough to mingle freely in play and work with other children he has long been exercised in fundamental habits and attitudes toward others' rights. He needs to learn in early years some basic inhibitions.

AGITATE FOR NEW YALE SOCIETY SYSTEM

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 1.—"A new and different Yale society system based on new conditions and on those about to be inaugurated under the eleven-college system" is being urged by Yale undergraduates and graduates alike.

The reform, if it comes, would eliminate such ancient features as Tap Day, Calcium Light Night, and initiations in general.

Not since the days when "Stover at Yale" created its own sensation among Yale men and led finally to the first reform among the secret societies here has anything like the present movement been observed. But, with a changing sort of men in Yale, the new reforms are expected to be put into effect without much regret.

The idea now proposed is to turn the societies into social clubs quite like the everyday clubs in the outside world.

The coming of the house-plan or college system at Yale has for some time led to a curiosity as to what would become of a group of fraternity houses built into a colony at the cost of several millions, and so new that the hammers of carpenters are still clacking on some of the structures.

If the proposed change goes through the buildings will be merely club houses.

House Committee Gets Explanation Of Utility Rates

Mass Of Testimony Concerning Financing And Rate Structures Is Heard

PREPARE TO WIND UP BIG HEARINGS

By ROBERT F. GORMAN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

HARRISBURG, May 1.—A mass of testimony concerning financing and rate structures of two widespread utility companies today lay before the house utilities investigating committee as it prepared to wind up its hearing of utility representatives. The firms are the Duquesne Light Company, of Pittsburgh, and the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, of Allentown.

Financial make-up of the Duquesne Light Company was taken up by the committee at its late session yesterday, and Harold Evans, committee counsel, charged that a difference of thirty-two million dollars in "intangibles" was used in arriving at a fair value for the company.

Valuation Placed.

According to Evans, the company's valuation in 1927 was placed at $137,000,000 but a capital stock report filed with the department of revenue left out the intangibles. C. S. Hitchell, controller of the Duquesne Company, said the two reports filed showed such a difference, but that they did not reduce the amount of capital stock tax due the state.

P. B. Sawyer, of Bethlehem, chairman of the board of the Pennsylvania Power and Light Company, and John F. Wise, Jr., of Allentown, president of the company, discussed the financing of their firm with the probers.

Sawyer explained the $121,000,000 bond issue floated recently by the company, stating that it was intended as a means of providing for a single mortgage to take place of individual mortgages on about forty firms involved in recent mergers with the Pennsylvania Power and Light firm.

History Outlined.

The board chairman also outlined at length the history of his company which has taken over about 95 separate properties in eastern Pennsylvania within the last three years.

Wise was questioned as to the price involved in only one merger and the rest of his testimony dealt with alleged political activities of the Pennsylvania Electric Association, of which he was president in 1928.

Wise denied he knew of any attempt by the association to influence school textbooks in favor of the utilities and said money contributed to the association by utility firms went largely to combat legislation considered inimical to the utilities.

Seal Sulks His Way Back To California

(International News Service)

DENVER, Col., May 1.—Commodore, 200-pound seal, has left here to return to the wife and kiddies out on the sunset coast after a month in the Denver City Park zoo.

When Commodore arrived here from California about a month ago he at once let the world know that he didn't like the altitude, the climate, nor the scenery. Moreover, he wanted to be back in Santa Barbara with the family.

Clyde Hill, superintendent of the zoo, thought perhaps Commodore would learn to like his new home. Commodore was obdurate, however. He sulked and fretted and wouldn't eat.

Weeks passed. Commodore grew thinner. Then one day Hill realized that it had been a whole month since Commodore had had a bite to eat.

Thus there was nothing left for Hill to do but duck Commodore in his crate and ship him back to Santa Barbara.

SOIL TESTING.
Written for Central Press
By DR. KARL F. KELLERMAN
Bureau of Plant Industry
U. S. Department of Agriculture

Although most garden soils are neither very acid or very alkaline, and consequently are suitable for most flowers, the gardener will do well to find out the soil reaction and if necessary modify his soul to meet the needs of his plants, horticulturists of the Bureau of Plant Industry advise. Neutral soils are unfavorable to such plants as azalea, holly, laurel, pink lady's slipper, wild lily, trailing arbutus, magnolia and rhododendron. Acid soils are unfavorable for begonia, cosmos, dahlia, gladiolus, rose, zinnia and similar plants. Alkali in the soil rarely presents a problem for the gardener except in some of the western plains and desert regions.

Dr. Karl F. Kellerman

If the gardener needs a more acid soil he may apply aluminum sulphate, powdered tannic acid, peat moss, or pine or oak sawdust that has been decaying a few years. He can neutralize acid soils with lime, the amount to be applied depending on the amount of acidity.

For both gardens and lawns, lime is of little value if merely strewn on the surface. It should be raked into the soil. Lying on the surface it changes to a less soluble form. One mistaken belief is that moss indicates an acid soil. Instead, it usually indicates lack of fertility or poor drainage. Another mistake is to burn over the ground to liberate fertilizer. This causes loss of humus, and destroys beneficial soil bacteria.

The simplest method of testing soil acidity is by the use of litmus paper. If greater accuracy is required the experimenter will do well to secure one of the simpler sets of test solutions for the hydrogen-ion determination.

Spare Nothing To Aid Sick, Hospital Slogan

In the care of our sick spart nothing in effort and materials that will favor the course of recovery. That is the watchword—the spirit of endeavor in Jameson Memorial Hospital. Behind it there is a kindly supervisory watchfulness that says, "Use what you need—save the rest". It is a battle between prodigal generosity and prudent economy.

Provisions materials during 1930, cost $27,803.76. That figure, however, was not the figure on which attention was focused...207.-905 meals were served at a provisions cost of 13.3c per meal. Every time one tenth of one cent per meal was saved it meant a saving of $207.90 per annum.

A certain dressing 2½x9 inches of which about 50,000 are used in a year, costs 1¼c. A similar dressing 2¼x8 inches would do the work at a cost of 1c for a saving of $125 per year. A dressing 8x8 square will cut 90 to a twenty yard roll. If it is cut a scant 7x8 there are 103 of them in a twenty yard roll. The saving approximates 1-5 of a cent per dressing—$50 per year.

Thirty little squares of soft complexion paper cost 1c. ⅓rd of a yard of gauze costs 1c. As a handkerchief or mouth wipe, 30 of the papers are better than ⅛ of a yard of gauze. What size bar of floating white toilet soap is most economical? 1¼ oz.; large enough to fit the hand; small enough to cost less than one cent; big enough not to be stingy; small enough to be not too tempting as a pocket piece.

The business of efficient care of the sick in hospital is a work of liberal economies.

Queen Shops In Paris Like "Judy O'Grady"

(International News Service)

PARIS, May 1.—Queen Elizabeth of the Belgians undoubtedly deserves the title of the most unostentations queen of Europe. She nearly always travels incognito, but a great many people soon find out that she is stopping at the Hotel Maurice, which shelters nearly all of the rulers when they come to Paris.

The car which met her at the North Station recently when she came to the French capital to do some of her Christmas shopping bore no royal arms and when she stepped from the train there were neither carpets nor red flowers.

Few clerks in the shops realized they were serving Queen Elizabeth who demanded no special service and was as humble as any little French bourgeoise in the Christmas crowds.

Landing Of Penn To Be Observed

Will Celebrate Two Hundred And Fiftieth Anniversary Of Founding Of Pennsylvania

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, May 1.—Plans for celebrating the 250th anniversary of the coming of William Penn to America and the founding of Pennsylvania are being made by more than thirty patriotic, historical and civic associations, co-operating to make the anniversary observance a fitting one.

At a meeting of the Historical Society of Pennsylvania, the formation of a working organization was arranged with John Frederick Lewis, president of the society, named to appoint the necessary committees and executive boards.

President Hoover, Lewis announced, has consented to act as patron of the celebration. Governor Gifford Pinchot has been named honorary president of the celebration organization and Governor Morgan F. Larson, New Jersey, and Governor Douglass Buck, of Delaware, will be honorary vice presidents.

A resolution offered by Eli Kirk suggested setting apart of an open space at Third and Dock streets, where Penn landed, to "serve to tie in one architectural composition the proposed new Customs House and Appraisers Stores with the Old Girard Bank building."

Roland S. Morris, former U. S. Ambassador to Japan, expressed the hope the celebration will be "honest, fearless and solid" rather than a "frothy show."

He also expressed the conviction the celebration should emphasize the spiritual and intellectual value of Penn's life and of the foundation of the commonwealth, and not merely stress the state's material progress.

Linguistic Atlas To Be Written

Dialects Of United States To Be Preserved For Future

(International News Service)

NEW HAVEN, May 1.—The entire plant of Yale University is to be thrown open next summer, for forces which will then be engaged on a Linguistic Atlas of the United States and Canada.

The atlas is a project of the American Council of Learned Societies and will be carried on with the co-operation of Brown University, Smith College, and the Universities of Maine and Vermont as well as Yale.

Professor Hans Kurath, University of Ohio, is to be director of the Atlas, and Professor M. Hanley, of University of Wisconsin, associate director, in headquarters here. Many field workers are to assist them and make frequent reports at headquarters.

Funds to cary the work through approximately two years have been furnished. The American Council of Learned Societies is responsible for this phase. Yale gave office facilities, furnished part-time work for the associate director, and provided other support.

The coming summer will find Professor Jud, of Zurich, director of the Swiss-Italian atlas, and his first assistant, Dr. Scheuermeier, spending much time at Yale, a Linguistic Institute which will be held under the direction of Professor Edgar H. Sturtevant of Yale, who first conceived the idea of an Atlas of the United States and Canada.

Explaining the owrk, Professor Prokosch says:

'We believe the linguistic variation of American English must be assembled now if ever, since various factors, such as the stage, radio and talking films tend towards the rapid eliminations of dialect differences.'

White Arctic Wolf Cub Litter Saved

First Litter Of White Arctic Wolf Cubs Raised In Captivity Will Survive

KANE, Pa., Mal 1.—The first litter of white arctic wolf cubs ever raised in captivity at the McCleery Wolf Park midway between Kane and Mt. Jewett today were receiving the attention a fond parent usually lavishes on its young.

The cubs, four in number, were born at the park April 3 and are now past that critical state during which, heretofore, the mother has always killed her young. The mother of the quartet, a beautiful white Arctic specimen, killed the other member of what was a litter of five, but for some reason did not molest the others.

The mother wolf, always before, has eaten the cubs when they are bred in captivity. She had eaten the hind quarters of the cub she killed when, according to Dr. E. H. McCleery, owner of the pack and noted wolf authority, "she evidently realized the horror of her cannibalistic deed, and forgot the instanct which prompts white arctics to slay the young that are born in bondage."

Keepers at the park the other day took the litter from the old female and Dr. McCleery is now certain that they are past the critical stage and will survive.

The Kane physician has wolf parks at Kane and at a park near Coatesville, Pa.

"Always Reliable"

"To Seek And To Save"

"Brass Tacks" On The Sunday School Lesson

The Golden Text

The Son of man is come to seek and to save that which was lost.—Luke 19:10.

By DR. ALVIN E. BELL

Shortness of stature was not the only handicap Zacchaeus, the tax collector of Jericho, had to overcome that eventful day when he climbed the cycamore tree to see Jesus of Nazareth passing by. There were the handicaps of his profession, which made him a renegade despised by the entire community, his reputation for dishonesty, and his riches which so often are allowed to choke spiritual impulses. But he overcame all of these and rose above them. To him handicaps were not stumbling stones, but stepping stones.

Seeking a Glimpse of Jesus

He climbed a tree seeking a glimpse of Jesus and instead he was given the joy and honor of making a guest of Jesus. He made haste to climb the tree to see Jesus, and Jesus bade him "make haste and come down" to entertain him in his home. Thus Jesus always surprises us with bestowments far beyond our fondest expectations. Men who say to him "abide with us' discover that He becomes the host instead of the guest and benefactor and they the beneficiaries. He refused to let us put him in 'red ink" in our dealings with Him. Zacchaeus's curiosity, evidenced a hungering soul which Jesus proceeded to feed. Soliciting an invitation to Zacchaeus' home and table He assumes the role of host and proceeds to bestow rich and abiding hospitality: "Today is salvation come to this house."

Securing a Glimpse of Self

"And he made haste and came down, and received Him joyfully. And when they saw it they all murmured saying, He is gone in to lodge with a man that is a sinner." How much a sinner he was this man never realized until that day when he saw himself in the presence of the sinless Son of Man. He saw himself in even blacker guise than his enemies would have painted him. No man can truly see Jesus without a new consciousness of unworthiness and an impulse to say, "Depart from me, for I am a sinful man, O Lord" Zacchaeus revealed this urge of the penitent soul as he cried out, "Behold, Lord, the half of my goods I give to the poor: and if I have wrongfully exacted aught of any man, I restore fourfold." To him religion was not a veneer, covering up his faults, but a thing of genuineness through and through. And he was willing to pay the price of this genuineness. To him repentance meant not only willingness to confess, but the making of the fullest restitution possible. He was willing to prove his faith by his works, to match his professions with his possessions.

Showing the Glory of Salvation

Thus the religion of Jesus is revealed as a practical region. It directly affects every day life. It is a thing of the home as well as of the church. It sets out at once to right wrongs, to undo the past, to make all things new." Jesus' method is not legislation but regeneration. He effects social and civil reform by transforming the hearts of men. He does not take Zacchaeus from the tax business, but puts him back in his old office as a new creature. And with Jesus there are no hopeless cases. He goes after the big fellows as well as the little fellows, the "up-and-inners," as well as the "down-and-outers." For both are equally lost, and as our Golden Text says: 'The Son of Man is come to seek and to save that which is lost."

(The International Uniform Lesson for May 3 is Luke 19:1-10, the subject being "Jesus is the Home of Zacchaeus.")

Design Unique Flying Kitchen For Navy Airship

By G. EVERETT DOYING
International News Service Staff Correspondent

AKRON, O., May 1.—The "flying kitchen"—a cook stove, equal in size to a hotel unit yet weighing only 110 pounds, is one of the unique features to be fitted into the giant Navy dirigible, the Akron, now under contsruction here.

The range is designed to meet all requirments of the officers and crew of the ship.

Made from a mixture of stainless steel, aluminum, toncan, chromium, magnesium and monel, the range will have two 16-inch ovens and a top space for eight vessels. Predominance of aluminum makes the unit extremely light in weight.

Four double-unit burners will be fed from a specially made tank containing propane gas—a compressed natural gas. Simplicity of construction of the range will make it possible to bring five gallons of cold water to a boiling point within 50 minutes, an accomplishment requiring more than two hours on standard open top stoves.

Possibility of explosion is eliminated by constantly burning pilots and a fine aluminum gauze which permits sufficient air through to keep the flame alive but keeps all flame inside the stove.

Two other features embodied in the construction and equipment of the new Leviathan of the air, which are totally different from anything ever before attempted in airships, are the airplane hangar inside the hull of the craft and the installation of motors within the ship.

Five large pursuit planes can be housed in the hangar. The planes will be able to take off and land back in the dirigible while the mother ship is in motion.

The motors will be concealed with the exception of the shaft and the propellor of each engine.

Another feature is the comparatively small control car for "the Akron." The control car will be only large enough to house the commanding officer and a necessary crew for the operation of the ship. Other members of the crew off-duty will be quartered in rooms just above this car. This feature is designed to lessen the air resistance and thereby increase the speed limit of the dirigible.

FROM WARRING TO FISHING
(International News Service)

HONOLULU, T. H.—Serving during the World War as a submarine chaser, the U. S. Eagle Boat Number 8, will be recommissioned and put into service as a fishing craft. The vessel has been purchased by a group of Los Angeles fishing men for use in equatorial waters near the Galapagos islands. She will be taken to Los Angeles, outfitted for commercial fishing, and renamed the "Fortitude."

SEEKS ALIMONY
(International News Service)

OAKLAND, Calif.—Back alimony for 31 years, totaling $22,090 plus interest, is asked by Mrs. E. May Banks in a suit on file today against L. J. She also asks right to valuable Oakland property.

GOOD HEALTH AGAIN

"Ten Herbs greatly improved my health," said Mrs. Clara Crouch, R. D. 1, Wampum, Pa., (near New Castle). "For three years my health had been poor. My stomach was in very bad condition. Everything I ate filled me with gas, which caused bloating. My head would ache and I was very nervous. My liver was not working properly and there were severe pains across my back and through my hips. I had to arise continually at night. I tried Ten Herbs and now stomach trouble has been ended. I can enjoy a good meal without being troubled with gas or retching and I do not bloat any more. That tired feeling and sick headaches have been relieved and my nerves have improved greatly. I sleep well at night without having to arise. I can heartily recommend Ten Herbs to others."

MRS. CLARA CROUCH

Ten Herbs is sold at Eckerd's of New Castle, Inc., 30 E. Washington St., and by all leading druggists throughout this entire section.

Stands On Rights, Refuses Plane Ride

(International News Service)

DENVER, Col., May 1.—Standing on his "constitutional rights," Geo. Nicholson a federal prisoner, recently refused to ride in an airplane while being returned to Oklahoma to face charges of violating the Dyer act.

Just what the constitution says about airplane rides for federal prisoners is not quite clear to Denver attorneys, but nevertheless the government authorities were forced to give up the proposed airplane trip. Nicholson was taken to Oklahoma on a railroad train.

TO HAVE DAYLIGHT TIME BUT BY SUBTERFUGE
(International News Service)

HARTFORD, Conn., May 1—Connecticut will continue to do business on daylight time, after April 25, but will imagine things are running according to standard time as in previous years.

Legislators from populous communities tried in vain to have their rural colleagues do away with the law forbidding use of daylight time. Rural lawmakers, backed by granges and other organizations, stuck to the old law and forced Connecticut to continue under the imaginary use of standard time.

The only penalty attached to the law against use of daylight saving is a fine of five dollars for displaying any but standard time to the public. A test case was made, some years back, and the courts upheld the penalty.

The sarcophagus, one of the most beautiful yet found in this district, contained also three gold rings, an earring an enamel pendant and a silver mirror.

ELK FIND OWN FOOD
(International News Service)

CHEYENNE, Wyo.—The mildness of the past winter, coupled with the ability of Wyoming's vast herds of elk to hustle for themselves, saved the state $35,000. The elk usually consume 4,000 tons of hay and 100 tons of cotton seed cake during the winter. Lack of snow this year caused elk to remain in the mountains throughout the year and find their own food. As a result they are in excellent condition at this time.

Huge Rock Crusher Built For Russia

(International News Service)

ALLENTOWN, Pa., May 1.—One of the largest rock-crushers ever built has been completed by a local plant and shipped to Russia for use by the Soviet government.

Weighing more than 500,000 pounds, the machine has a feed opening five by seven feet. It required five railway cars to transfer it to the shipping port. Stones can be broken in the crusher at the rate of 100,000 pounds every three minutes. A three hundred horsepower motor drives the machine.

WINSTED, Conn.—Pickerel twenty-six inches long, weighing more than four pounds each have been taken out of Highland lake here this winter. Ice-fishing has brought them to the surface and revealed an apparent school of the big ones in a favorable spot far out on the lake. The fish are setting a record this winter.

Memorial Marks Mission Meeting

Robert McKinney Was One Of The Founders Of The City Rescue Mission Here

Large Delegation From Erie Hears Rev. C. A. Blackmore Thursday Evening

A pall of sadness spread over the evangelistic services in the First Methodist church Thursday evening which are being sponsored by the City Rescue Mission, when the word went around that Robert McKinney had gone to his home Beyond.

Mr. McKinney was a founder and long time friend of the Mission and beautiful tribute was paid to his memory by his pastor, Dr. W. E. McClure, of the First Presbyterian church, and by B. J. Watkins, superintendent of the Mission, who became interested in this work through the influence of Mr. McKinney. Dr. C. A. Blackmore of Erie, speaker of the evening, who had also known and loved Mr. McKinney, spoke most feelingly of his friendship with this Godly man. The Jubilee Singers contributed their tribute to Mr. McKiney in two exquisitely beautiful spirituals.

Rev. Blackmore gave a very fine sermon, his subject being, "Why We Should Win Our Young People to Christ." He pointed out that this is a much more vital question than who is going to be our next president. We've been guilty of building the head and not the heart. Preachers are not the only ones who are worried about the young people of our land. Last year, at a great banker's convention one speaker said, "We have failed to build Jesus Christ into the lives of men." Another said "Business today needs people who are right with God and their Church." A few months ago at a great educational conference the problem was placed before the teachers of the land. Dr. Blackmore concluded with this text from Gen. "How can I go to my Father if the lad is not With Me.'

A large delegation from Erie motored to the city Thursday evening to attend this service. There were people from the Mission of which Rev. Blackmore is superintendent in the group.

Tonight is Young People's Night and a special effort will be made to take care of a large crowd.

On Saturday night, Edward Langa, manager and tenor of the Spiritual Jubilee Singers will give a lecture concert on the Negro Spirituals showing how these songs are the soul cry of a broken-hearted people.

Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock there will be a mass meeting in the Mahoning Methodist church of which Rev. D. D. Sleppy is pastor, when Rev. Blackmore will preach and the Jubilee Singers will give their message in song.

Murder Solved?

After attending a dance given by a volunteer fire company, Emily Kirk (above), of Hamden, Conn., was found slain. Police see a possible solution of the crime in the suicide of William Wetmore, 25-year-old cousin of Clement Wetmore, Emily's brother-in-law, who killed himself when ordered to testify before the coroner's jury.

Rushing Plans For Convention

Local Girl Scout Executives Making Elaborate Plans For Annual Convention

CAMP TRAINING TO PRECEDE CONFERENCE

One week from today, over one hundred Girl Scout leaders and councillors from four states and the District of Columbia will be gathering at Dick Victor's camp near Ellwood City, for the week-end of training which will precede the big convention of leaders and councillors in New Castle.

New Castle Girl Scout executives are rushing plans for the week-end of training and for the three day convention, and it is firmly believed that this annual convention will be one of the most successful and most enjoyable ever in the history of the region.

Each member of the local council is devoting practically all of her time in perfecting the many details that must be attended to in order to have every thing run smoothly during the three day training period at camp and during the three day conference period at New Castle.

The training period will be conducted by prominent women in scout work who are well qualified to teach the courses planned. This training will take place during May 8, May 9 and May 10 at Camp Dick Victor. The camp is located about one mile off the main highway between New Castle and Ellwood City, at the foot of the Ellwood hill. Signs will be erected along the route.

The conference period, commencing May 11 and lasting through May 12 and May 13, will take place at The Castleton, the New Castle Field club, with a final session at Sharon, Pa.

Delegates from Pennsylvania, Maryland, Delaware, Virginia and the District of Columbia will be present at both the week-end training and convention. There will also be a number of special guests from the Kenowa region, which includes Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

LONG ENOUGH AS IT WAS

Bishop Stires went to Hobart College to preach. He chose the letters in the word Hobart as a guide for his sermon, and growing enthusiastic over his subject preached at length on each letter, H for honesty, O for order, and so on, his discourse lasting an hour. As the congregation were going out, one boy was heard to remark to another "Thank heaven he didn't go to the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Hear Testimony Of Witnesses In Alienation Case

table for half an hour or so and after a certain period of time, they would turn the lights out.

Sometimes a light would then go on in the front bedroom upstairs.

Did you ever see Mr. McMahon go upstairs.

Yes.

How?

I could see by the light from the street light.

What did you observe as to how long he remained there?

In most cases he would remain there until four or five o'clock in the morning. Sometimes until 11 or 12 o'clock or all day.

What did you observe as to his way of leaving? What would he do?

He had different ways. Sometimes the lights would go on upstairs in the early morning. Sometimes in the hallway upstairs.

Then what transpired?

He would come downstairs, out the front door, get in his car, if he could get it started. Sometimes he couldn't get it started. Sometimes she would come out. Once I saw her in her night gown, come out of the bedroom and smoke a cigaret.

Were you able to discern if persons were moving in the bedroom?

I could see shadows against the blinds.

Around 16 or 17 of December last year what happened?

A little screen had been kept in the bedroom about 10 inches tall. Once I noticed the windows was not down to the screen by an inch or more. I saw the movements of two people.

Was there any peculiarity in his walking?

He was a little lame in one leg which gave him a peculiar gait.

When did these events cease according to your observation?

Around the first of the year in 1931.

Was there any change in time when he went there or where he parked his car?

He changed the place of parking the car.

What was this change?

I don't remember any occasion before then that he didn't park his car on Warren avenue just off East Washington street. The first or second night after that I noticed he parked up East Washington street farther towards the park.

I also noticed that he didn't leave the house by the front door as customary.

What place did he leave from?

I couldn't see but it was either the back or side door.

About 5 o'clock in the morning the lights went on as was customary. I didn't see any more until he came out between the Michaels property. He didn't turn his lights on until he got past where I live.

Did you see anything further along this line?

The next night he parked directly across from where he had parked the night before. He came out about the same time.

Was Mr. McMahon there around Christmas or New Years?

Yes.

What did you observe then?

His conduct was about the same. The night before Christmas he parked down on Warren near the shoe shop on the right hand side of the street. He went in around 8 o'clock in the evening and stayed until around 4 o'clock. I didn't see where he came out of. He went direct to the car and instead of driving towards East Washington street, he backed down to an alley then turned and went towards Huron avenue.

When did you first see Mrs. McMahon.

Around the 25th of October.

Where?

In Oil City?

Is it not a fact she came to your house after that?

Yes, she came there that evening.

Did she observe matters that transpired at the Emery home?

She came there about 8 o'clock. We observed this car and it was the same one we had always seen.

What did Mrs. McMahon do about observing events at the Emery home?

She looked at the car and over the Emery home. She wanted to be sure whether or not it was her husband.

On objection by Mr. Dickey the answer was stricken out.

Tell us what you did then when you got home that evening?

We went into the house and did not turn any lights on. We finally retired and Mrs. McMahon stayed up.

What did you observe before going to bed?

I can't recall in particular but saw those people in the dining room.

Any lights in the house?

There were none.

Did you see Mr. McMahon about the house that night or next morning?

He left a little later than usual.

Objection by Dickey was overruled by the court.

It was around 10 o'clock or maybe 11. He came out the front door and got into the car and went away.

Was Mrs. McMahon observing?

She was.

Did she observe on subsequent nights?

She did. She was there almost every night.

Was Mr. McMahon there on any of those nights?

He was. Almost every night. He would not leave until 3 or 4 o'clock in the morning.

Did you ever observe any other persons in the house with Mr. McMahon or Mrs. Emery?

There were two or three occasions when there were other people. One day the daughter was there.

You mean Sarah McMahon?

Yes and other people.

The daughter left with another lady and then he came back.

How late did he stay?

Until the early morning.

Around what time?

Around 7 o'clock.

Can you remember any other occasions?

Once a Mrs. Hogue was there and stayed one hour and five minutes.

Was he there?

No.

Now I mean when he was there?

One other time.

What about most of these occasions?

There was seldom anyone else there.

Mr. Hendrix was then cross-examined by the defense.

What is your business? he was asked.

Real estate.

You work at it?

Yes.

Now it would seem you have spent most of the time watching the Emery house.

I was watching at night not in the day time.

You had time for a little sleep in the day time and watched at night?

Yes.

Trouble With Mrs. Emery

You had some trouble with Mrs. Emery didn't you?

When I first bought property, the first thing I tried to do was bring it up to what I thought would be a nice home. I put in a sewer in alley, and got rich soil and made a nice terrace. The loose dirt I would pull toward center of street. I kept everything spic and span, and oilc ' the street at my own expense. After the street was oiled there had been heavy rain. I trimmed terrace and pulled some slag down onto street. Mrs. Emery said I had no right to work on the street. I apologized. She said she was going to report it.

She said if I paid all my bills I would have plenty to do. I said if I got my money the way you got your I wouldn't say anything.

Didn't you swear at her?

I did not.

An hour after that, wasn't there some trouble about driving the car into the driveway?

Didn't you and your wife come out and thumb your nose at her?

No. I didn't go into the house.

Didn't you have more words?

I did not.

Didn't you later in the day have more words with her when she put her car in the garage?

No.

Didn't you have more trouble that same day?

One day I had parked along Warren avenue and she came out and asked me to move my car and Mrs. Hendrix moved the car.

Didn't you and Mrs. Hendrix thumb your nose at her?

I didn't.

Did Mrs. Hendrix?

I didn't see her.

Didn't your wife call her a vile name?

Not that I heard.

When did you first start your watch on the Emery house?

Around early part of February, 1930.

Wasn't it in March?

No I planted my sweet peas in March and it was before that.

Didn't you keep records on the Emery house?

Yes, when I was asked to.

Who asked you?

Detective John Miller.

Was he watching the home too?

Yes.

How many times was he there?

Lots of times. He would come to my house and go in the back door.

He had access to your house?

Yes. There were other watchers.

Who were they?

Mrs. J. C. Bevan. I have seen the Fullertons. He lives down Warren avenue.

Who were the others?

I can't recall their names now.

You say everybody that went past the house watched it?

Everyone going to Sunday school.

Did others watch at night?

Yes. Mr. and Mrs. Dave Clarke.

How long did they watch?

Sometimes all night.

You took an interest in what was going on?

Yes. I wanted to know how long a thing like this could go on.

You just took a neighborly interest?

Yes.

Who else besides Mr. and Mrs. Dave Clarke?

There were other people there.

You invited people to come and watch?

No we never invited people there to these watch parties.

Once Mrs. McMahon watched there. She sat at the foot of our bed.

When you and Mrs. Hendrix were in bed?

Yes.

She watched the Emery house and you watched her?

Yes. I didn't sleep much that night.

Can you give any definite dates when Mrs. McMahon was there?

From December 15, 1930 back for two months or so, he was there almost every night except on a few occasions.

When did he stay all night? Along in October or November.

Why did you go to Mrs. McMahon in Oil City?

Rumor Around

There seemed to be a rumor around the neighborhood, and from what I had seen myself I thought it was time she knew what was going on.

When did you learn he had a wife?

Boy Scout Explorer

Away from home since December 31 with the Syracuse Andean expedition in the wilds of Venezuela, John Enfiejian, a boy scout of Syracuse, N. Y., did a noble deed on his return to New York. Eager as he was to see his parents, he decided to forego the pleasure in order to save the lives of fifteen parrots by staying in quarantine with them for two weeks. The good scout is pictured above wi'' two small ring-tail monkeys brought back by the expedition.

Shortly before we went to Oil City in November.

You didn't try to find out before then?

I wasn't much concerned.

You weren't much concerned then?

Oh, yes.

The police were called up to straighten out some trouble at your house with Mrs. Emery, weren't they?

Yes, I believe so.

About parking the car?

I believe so.

Do you know Dan Fusco?

Yes.

Do you remember him being in your yard when you called the police about Mrs. Emery? Didn't he hear you call Mrs. Emery a very vile name.

I don't think you would think I would say such a thing.

Didn't you make that remark in front of Mr. Fusco?

I positively did not.

When you found he was married you went up to Oil City?

Yes.

When was it?

Either in October or November.

When you went there you had no business there?

No.

You found out she was living there before you went?

Yes.

You didn't know her or have any interest in her?

I talked to the children over the telephone several times. I talked to the little girl and little boy. I asked her where her mother was and she said she didn't know. I talked to the little boy, but I don't remember if I asked him about the mother.

Who told you he had a wife?

I don't remember.

How did you find where she was living?

I don't remember.

You brought her down here and took her to your house and have been helping her ever since, haven't you?

I took her to the lawyer's office.

You took her to Mr. Braham?

Yes.

Did she know Mr. Braham?

No.

You took her to Mr. Braham and recommended him to her?

Yes.

Was Mr. Braham ever at your house?

No, but Mr. Shumaker was.

He came to serve a subpoena on you in a case that was tried last week, didn't he?

Yes.

You were his witness, were you not?

Yes.

He came snooping around the house?

What do you mean, snooping?

Well, if anyone goes from the living room to the dining room without permission I would call that snooping.

That is all, Mrs. Hendrix.

Leslie Brest Called

Leslie Brest was the next witness called. He said he is employed at the tin mill and is Mrs. Hendrix's son-in_law.

He stated he was married April 19 of last year.

Are you familiar with location of Emery house? he was asked.

Yes.

Have you seen Mr. McMahon there?

Yes.

When?

About February, 1930. It was before I was married.

What did you first observe?

The first was the car parked at the entry to her garage. Then I noticed him in the house, in the dining room.

What did you observe?

Nothing in particular. I was interested in other things at that time. He was always in the dining room when I saw him or coming or going from car.

When did you leave?

Between 11 and 12 o'clock. I had to catch the car which would take me to the West Side.

Was Mr. McMahon there when you left?

Yes.

Did you see him when the lights were put out?

Not to my recollection.

What did you observe as to their conduct?

Occasionally she would come close to him and stroke his hair back. Later I observed other things.

When was that?

In summer and fall, when I visited there and stayed all night. I saw him come out once at 7:30 in the morning.

Any occasion you remember as to his being there until early morning.

We were taking a hunting trip on the first of November. We left at five o'clock in the morning. We came there that evening at 10 o'clock. Then I retired. His car was there.

During the night I didn't sleep well. I remember at three o'clock of getting up and the car was still there. In the morning it was still there. It had snowed and there were no marks of a car leaving.

Were you there on later occasions?

Yes. On the 24th of December. I saw Mrs. Emery put her arms around him in the dining room. There were other occasions he was there, but I don't remember the dates.

In cross-examination Mr. Reynolds asked Mr. Brest how long he had known Mrs. Emery and he replied, about two years.

How long did you know Mr. McMahon?

Not that long.

Did Mr. Hendrix point him out to you?

No.

You were frequently at Mr. Hendrix's home?

Yes.

How frequently were you at Mr. Hendrix's home after you were married?

Two or three times a week.

You have never seen this car parked except around Mrs. Emery's house?

No.

You saw Mr. McMahon and Mrs. Emery there?

Yes. I saw them in the dining room.

You never saw anything except what you saw in the dining room?

I have seen the lights turned out in the house. That was in July and August.

How many times did you see them in the fall?

Well, about every week.

This time you left on the hunting trip you saw nothing except Mr. McMahon's car?

No.

Did Mr. Hendrix discuss this with you?

No.

In all this time all you saw was this incident in the dining room?

Well, I saw Mrs. Emery turning the light out.

You didn't discuss this with Mr. Hendrix?

No.

Mr. Braham asked what he had observed upstairs in the house.

Well, I saw the shades were drawn in the front room.

Mrs. Brest Called

Mrs. Leona L. Brest was next called. She is the daughter of Mr. Hendrix. She stated they were married April 19, 1930.

Did you observe David McMahon at Mrs. Emery's house?

Yes.

When did you first observe him there at night.

Before I was married.

When was that?

I never saw him there until a few months before I was married. I had seen his car there before that. The first time was when I was awakened by his car being started.

What time would that be?

About 2 of 3 o'clock in the morning, when the weather became warmer I would see them sitting at the dining room table. She would serve him lunch. Sometimes they would set at the table. Then the lights would be turned out. Then I generally retired to be awakened later on by the car being started.

Was the man you saw in the car the same man that you saw in the dining room?

Yes.

After you were married what did you observe? How often were you there?

About every week end.

What did you observe?

We would get there about 8 o'clock in the evening and the car would be there. It would still be there when we left. I would see Mr. McMahon there with his hat and coat off.

What did you see?

I would see Mrs. Emery reach across the table and pat his hand, or go around the table and put her arm around him.

I would see his car there after the lights would go out.

What were the other occasions when you saw him leave?

Once when I was up there I was helping my mother wash windows and I saw him come out about 10 o'clock in the morning and start his car and drive away.

What was another occasion?

Once before Christmas I went up to my mother's and they had company and I had to sleep downstairs. I was awakened about 4:30. I couldn't sleep and I sat up and read. I saw a light on in the front room and shadows moving back and forth. About 5 o'clock he came out of the house and drove away.

Were there any other occasions?

Yes.

Were you there around New Years of this year?

Yes. I was there on New Years day: I came around 9 o'clock in the morning and Mr. McMahon's car was there. It remained there all day.

Cross examination.

When did you first discuss this case with your parents?

I never discussed it with them.

Did you not discuss this case with them ever?

Well the day before the case came up for trial.

Hogan Testifies

P. L. Hogan of 912 Warren avenue was next called. He stated he had lived there for three years. He said he lived two doors away from Mrs. Emery's and worked for the B. R. & P. Railroad.

Did you ever know of Mr. McMahon being at the home of Mrs. Emery?

No.

Did you ever know that he was on Warren avenue with his car?

Yes, in November, 1930.

What were the circumstances?

I returned from work about midnight. It had snowed and I swept the snow off the walks. He was trying to start his car and it would not start. I had a car of the same make and I said I would help to start it. We couldn't get it started and I got my car and towed him. The car was parked near the Emery home.

How do you travel going back and forth to your work?

I drive my car.

I drive down Hazel street and then into the alley in going to my garage.

He was cross examined.

In going to your home, you pass the Emery home?

Yes.

And you never saw Mr. McMahon's car there but one time?

No.

Did you ever see Mr. McMahon at the Emery home?

Yes, around November 20.

Did you see him there?

Yes, in dining room.

In whose company?

Mrs. Emery's.

How long did he stay?

Until 12 of 1 o'clock as his car was still there.

How many times did you see him in the Emery home?

Four or five times?

Were any other lights turned on?

I can't say there were.

Did you see Mr. McMahon coming out of the house?

What time did he come out?

Around 1:30, when I went there, there were no lights turned on.

Were you at the Hendrix home then?

Yes.

Were you with Mr. and Mrs. Hendrix when they went to Oil City?

Yes.

Do you know whether Mrs. McMahon went to Hendrix's house when you came back?

Yes.

A. J. Goss Found Dead In Garage

Believed That Shotgun Was Accidentally Discharged While Being Cleaned

ELLWOOD CITY, Pa., May 1.—Albert J. Goss, 53, of 729 First avenue, was found dead in his garage this morning, with a shotgun lying under him and a rifle on a bench near by. Discovery of the body was made by his son, Robert Goss. J. I. Porter was summoned, who in turn called Coroner J. P. Caldwell and Policeman James A. Hays.

According to stories told by the family Mr. Goss does considerable hunting and had two guns. On Thursday evening he remarked that he believed he would go out to the garage and clean his guns. That was the last seen of him alive. Evidence in the garage indicated that he had been cleaning the guns as there was some oily rags lying beside the rifle.

The shotgun, which was found under him, had contained but one shell which had been discharged, the shot striking Mr. Goss near the heart. Officer James A. Hays learned that a shot had been heard about 7:30 last night, but no attention was paid to it, as there has been some shooting of rats in the neighborhood. When the body was found it was cold, indicating that the shot heard was probably the one which killed Mr. Goss.

Those who are acquainted with Mr. Goss believe that the gun must have been accidentally discharged while it was being cleaned. They think that Mr. Goss did not know the shell was in the gun. Coroner Caldwell is investigating.

Mr. Goss was a tubeworker by occupation. He is survived by his widow, Clara Goss, a son, Robert Goss and one daughter, Mrs. Alberta Clark of Ellwood City.

Park Project Is Discussed Here

Ellwood Rotarians Hear Of Possibilities Of Parks In Ellwood City

ELLWOOD CITY, May 1.—A splendid meeting was held by the Rotary Club last night in the First Presbyterian church with a thorough discussion of the "Development of the Ellwood City Park System" taking place.

J. W. Humphrey, chairman of the community service committee, presided during the program and was the first speaker on the subject. Mr. Humphrey gave an outline on the acreage and description of Ewing Park, the place suited for such a park. He also explained some ways of creating public interest.

The next speaker was Lowell W. Monroe, borough manager, who spoke on "The Development of the Plan to Build a Community Park". He suggested that a photographic survey of the land be first made that will show where gardens, trees and forest preserves are best suited. The survey would also show where the recreational grounds would be situated, definitely showing the location of the new proposed stadium and walks. He pointed out the necessity of a program being drawn up at once.

J. A. Gelbach spoke on the "Finance and Administration" part of this pogram. He asserted that the community could develop a very nice park gradually. It would be impossible to do all at once, but item by item could be very easily financed.

"How to Create Public Interest" was the subject chosen by Thor W. Bruce, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce. He suggested having a historic trail being made in the park and that a caretaker should be arranged for. An annual outing day observed by the entire community would go far into creating interest. Also a more zealous observance of Arbor Day would aid toward this cause.

After these four talks were over a general discussion was held by the club concerning this subject.

There was not anything done to make this plan a reality. The purpose of this meeting was to start the ball rolling toward this goal. The project will be discussed by other clubs and fraternities of this city, it was announced.

It was one of the features of Parents Day and May Day, which is being observed today at that school and created much interest and favorable comment.

The examination there as in the five schools of this city where examinations were conducted this week, was under the supervision of the Health Committee of the Lawrence County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Sixty-three children were examined and the pre-school examination was conducted by the regular school district physician and dentist. They were ably assisted by welfare nurses and members of the Federated Clubs and other interested women and with very fine co-operation on the part of the principal and teachers of the school.

One case of chronic mastoid was discovered and the child, who was in charge of members of her family was sent home immediately with instructions that the case necessitated immediate attention. This was unusual in the examinations so far this year, being the one case where immediate action was thought necessary. Twin girls were also examined in this district, bringing the number of twins examined this year to five.

The examinations this year were unusually successful, a total of 290 children in all being examined. The fine cooperation of the principals, teachers, parents, welfare nurses, physicians and ladies of the Federated clubs, as well as other interested ladies made the examinations, the success that they were.

Mrs. S. D. Pearson, vice-president of the Lawrence County Federation of Women's Clubs, attended the examinations and was much impressed with the work being accomplished by the Health Committee of the Federation and the various assisting agencies and persons.

Scout Board Takes Action On Matters

Oregon Trail Campaign To Be Pushed Here Immediately; Name Leaders

Representatives from every section of the county came here last night for the customary meeting of the Lawrence County Boy Scout council executive board, held in Boy Scout headquarters in the Greer building here.

Dr. C. J. Williamson, pastor of the Highland U. P. church and the president of the council board, was the presiding officer.

Further action relative to the council's campaign to establish a granite marker for Lawrence county on the proposed Oregon trail, which will run from St. Louis to San Francisco, was taken. Frank Schulz, Charles T. Metzler, of New Castle, and Will Keegle, Ellwood City, were instructed to handle the details.

A committee of C. W. Herman Hess, G. Blaine Hancher and Scout Executive Herbert Horton was instructed to scrutinize the council constitution and to make a report at the board meeting in September.

Chairman Rex L. Patch of the council's troop organization committee reported that 16 groups throughout the county are contemplating forming scout troops at the present time.

Other routine business was disposed of, Commissioner Ralph F. Davis making his regular report.

District Commissioner Earle K. Herbert and John Lindgren represented the southern district at last night's session.

Requests City To Construct Sewer

Council Delayed Solons Explain By Alleged Exorbitant Demand

Attorney Charles Davis, counsel for Anthony Massaro, East Brook road, today requested the city to proceed immediately with construction of a sanitary sewer proposed for the East Brook road. He said rains had destroyed three cess pools and that a sanitary sewer was necessary.

He explained a petition had been presented, plans prepared, but the sewer had not been put in. Council explained that a property owner had asked for a price council deemed exorbitant for permission to run the sewer across the rear of his lot.

It was decided to confer with the property owner Tuesday after which it is anticipated the city will proceed to remedy the alleged condition.

City Offices To Open Hour Earlier Monday

This will result in offices opening at 7 a. m. Eastern Standard Time, lunch period at 11 a. m. eastern standard and closing time at four p. m. eastern standard time.

Dear Madam

The coat selling commences tomorrow . . . at price reductions only found on unusual occasions of this nature.

Africa Suffers Sheep Famine

Prolonged Drouth Kills Off Herds In Algeria

PARIS, May 1—North Africa is suffering from a sheep famine as a result of a prolonged drought which caused the death of 80 per cent of the flocks in Algeria. Importations of North African mutton in France have practically stopped, while last year Algeria exported a million head to France.

The effect is being seen all through North Africa where mutton is the staple meat dish, because of the scarcity of meat cattle. Millions of Arabs from the Mediterranean of the Sahara have been obliged to discontinue eating mutton except once a week.

Four times in the past 10 years the Algerian flocks have been cut down by drought which leaves the Arab herdsmen without food or water for their flocks. The droughts of 1920, 1922 and 1926 cut heavily into the flocks, but not to the extent of the present crisis.

Last January, officials estimated that the herds of Algeria, ordinarily counted at 7,000,000 head, had been reduced by half. Since that date 20 per cent more have disappeared and the remainder are so thin and weak that they cannot be marketed. Conservative estimates show the herds have lost 80 per cent of the value.

Registration Of Voters To Begin

Registering assessors throughout Lawrence county will begin a registration of voters in townships and boroughs on May 4. They are expected to finish their work by May 25 and return their books to the county commissioners office by July 16.

Highway Dancers Reach New Castle

It required 1 hours and 25 minutes for Miss Sunny Blaisdell, 19, and Freddy DeFleise, 28, Lynn, Mass., to dance their way along the highway from Butler to New Castle. They started from Butler yesterday at 2 o'clock and reached here at 2:25 this morning. They're dancing their way from Lynn, Mass., to Los Angeles, and if they do it within 18 months they'll get a $25,000 prize from the Lynn, Mass., Chamber of Commerce, they stated. They'll have to reach Los Angeles by March 4 1932, having left Lynn, Mass., on September 4, 1930.

Fire Fighters Fly To Forest Blazes

Montana Foresters To Use Planes in Combatting Fires

(International News Service)

MISSOULA, Mont., May 1.—Fire fighters in the national forests of Montana and Idaho will speed to distant fires by air this summer, covering in a few hours distances which previously took days of laborious hiking it was revealed recently when the forestry service called for bids on the transportation of supplies from Missoula to the Big Prairie, northeast of here.

The Big Prairie region is now reached by four days of strenuous hiking, with supplies carried on pack horses. The bids are to be made on the transportation of 60,000 pounds of supplies.

Forestry officials believe that the use of airplanes in transporting men and supplies to fires in remote areas will effect a considerable saving in money as well as in time. Freighting of supplies into the Big Prairie area by air would give 400,000 acres of forest immediate protection in case of fire.

Plans are also being made to use airplanes to move supplies into the Selway forest in Idaho.

EVANGELIST SCHMIDT REPLIES

New Castle, Pa.
April 30, 1931.

Mr. George Conway,
Editor New Castle News:
Dear Sir:

In answer to Mr. C. B. Randall's letter in The News April 29th., 1931 on page 22, I will say this:

Dr. Martin Luther nailed his Ninety-five Theses on the door of the Castle Church at Wittenberg, October 3, 1517. Has been called the birth day of the Lutheran church. April 18-15-21, when Luther, before the Diet of Worms, showed he was right from the Scriptures. In June 25, 1530, his Confession of Faith was laid before Emporer Charles V at the Diet of Augsburg its day of confirmation. Lutheranism spread to Sweden in 1527, to Denmark and Norway 1537, Iceland 1551, Transylavnia 1557, Poland 1573, Hungary 1606, Behemia and Moravia 1609. Nine Lutheran Universities were established in Germany in 1528. Patrick Hamilton a Lutheran preached in Scotland in 1523. Soon after Luther's death 1546, in 1577, followed the acceptance the Formula of Concord by the defenders of Biblical truth.

In 1618-1648 there was a great storm of Thirty year's of War in Germany over Lutheran defeating them. In 1632, Westphalia again guaranteed freedom of worship. It was in this period that the first pastors were sent to America. Oppressed and persecuted came to America and Australia. The first Lutheran settlers came to the Dutch colonies on the Hudson, 1638 and along the Delaware. Companies arrived in New Netherlands (New York) Lutherans established a congregation in 1648. The Lutherans were granted freedom of worship in 1664, in 1734 the Lutheran Salzburgers settled in Georgia. Henry M. Muhlenberg was a strong leader among the Lutherans in 1742, and became founder of the Pennsylvania Miuisterium in 1748.

The General Synod was organized in 1820.

In 1839, the Lutherans built a Log Hut College in the backwoods of Perry County, Mo., and an educational Institution from New York to San Francisco. In 1847 at the General council of the Lutheran Church, C. F. W. Walther founded the Synod of Missouri and Ohio, and the German Dr. Martin Luther Bible which I have was brought to this country from Halle, Germany and bears the date of October 27, 1784. So if Mr. Randall is not aware of a genuine German Dr. Martin Luther Bible of the date of 1784, let me inform him and the readers of The News that I have one in a very prominent bank vault in this city. I have four photographs of it in my possession, gaving the old and New Testament title page with Aug. Herm. Frankens Instructions of the Lutherans Church Doctrine, with day and date and year and Dr. Martin Luther's name all plainly printed: both Old and New Testaments as well as (Apocrypha) between the Old and New Testaments which is not in the Modern Published Bibles. Mr. Randall may be a noted authority on books—but I have the Genuine Bible to prove my claim.

Respectfully,
L. SCHMIDT, Evangelist
Castle Hill Mission Bible House
City.

P. S.—I have my records of facts from the American Lutheran Publicity Bureau, 22-26, East 17 Street, New York City, N. Y. These people have absolute and clear facts when Dr. Martin Luther translated the New Testament, and later the entire Bible. My German Bible comes from Halle, Germany and was brought to Ohio by an inmate of the Orphan Asylum of that place sometime between 1847-1867 and passed to relatives and descendants who gave me the Bible among a lot of other old German books. I will sell this Bible and use all the money obtained from the sale of it to buy Bibles from the American Bible Society and distribute them free in all languages among the poor people. After the sale of the Bible, I will endorse the check and turn the same over at once to the Society for Bibles.

Erie Man "Knows His Groceries"

ERIE, Pa., May 1.—That William R. Beckman "knows his groceries" no one in Erie will deny.

For he has sold them for fifty-five years and is celebrating his fifty-fifth anniversary of doing business at the same location.

Beckman recalled the radical changes in preparation of foods and their transportation during the time he has been in the business.

In the old days, he said, the hardest job was wrapping articles together, for there were no hold-all paper bags.

"When you could wrap the packages so none of the contents would fall out you were a good clerk," he reminisced.

Man Girds His Forces For War On Insect Pests

Department Plans For Annual Campaign To Protect Crops

HARRISBURG, May 1.—Preluminary plans for the summer campaign against the Japanese beetle, the European corn borer and other devastating insects found in the Commonwealth were announced today by R. H. Bell, director, bureau of plant industry, Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture.

The extension in the Japanese beetle quarantined area was the smallest during 1930 of any recent year. Sixteen townships in Lycoming and Clinton counties were added to the lightly infested area, while eight townships in Cumberland, Perry and Union counties, which were in the lightly infested area during the past year, were placed in the generally infested area.

In the "lightly infested area," restrictions are placed on the movement of nursery and ornamental plants, sand (except for construction purposes), soil, earth, compost and manure but not on the movement of farm products. In the generally infested area restriction will be continued practically the same as in the past.

According to present plans, the road patrols will begin work about June 15, and will be stationed at the edge of the generally infested area. In most cases, these stations will be at approximately the same points as a year ago.

Scouting for new beetle infestations will be done as in the past, largely by the Federal Government. It is expected also that the Federal office will continue the policy of liberating parasites at all outlying points where the beetle infestation is sufficient to support the parasites. While traps will be used more generally in scouting work to find new infestations, they are not recommended except when used on a community-wide basis, Mr. Bell said.

New regulations for the control of the European corn borer make only minor changes in the requirements as enforced during 1930. The important provision in the quarantine for the area as a whole is the restriction placed on the movement of corn, broom corn, sorghums and sudan grass which cannot be moved from points within the area to points outside. The movement of broom corn, sorghums and sudan grass, however, are no longer restricted.

Corn Clean-Up

Enforced clean-up of all corn remnants will be carried out in Erie and a portion of Warren counties. Starting the first week in May, inspectors of the Department will visit farms in this area and in case farmers have not voluntarily made the necessary clean-up, the Department will be compelled to do the work and charge the expense to the farm owner or operator. The requirements of the clean-up are: 1. All corn stalks, corn cobs, heavy weeds and all corn fodder remnants of any kind, regardless of the location, must be burned. 2. Corn stubble must be completely plowed under or broken off at the ground, gathered and burned before May 1.

Scouting work in the interior counties will be done by the State to determine the degree of infestation, as well as the effectiveness of the clean-up in the counties where this effort is required. Federal scouts will search new areas to determine any spread of the insect.

Road patrols along the corn borer quarantine line will be maintained by Federal authorities during the late summer and fall to enforce the regulations which prohibit the transfer of corn from the infested area.

Watch Other Pests

Other insects, especially the Oriental fruit moth and the Mexican bean beetle, will be given attention during the year. Parasites of the Oriental fruit moth are being reared in the laboratory at Chambersburg and will be released during the season in orchards in that section. The results will be studied carefully to determine the effectiveness of parasites as a means of controlling this serious fruit pest. Field tests on insectides and fungicides as a pre-requisite to registration and as a check on claims made by the manufacturers will be conducted by the bureau on a larger scale than last year. A survey has been made during recent months of the insectides and fungicides being offered for sale throughout the State.

Operators' Cards Are Not Forged, Eynon Asserts

Dozens Of Letters Being Received Daily Asking For License Card Explanation

HARRISBURG, May 1.—With a dozen or more letters being received daily by the State bureau of motor vehicles concerning the validity of the 1931 operator's license card, Benjamin G. Eynon, commissioner of motor vehicles, has found it necessary to again deny the rumor that a wholesale forgery of licenses has been promoted. In some cases writers of these letters have enclosed their cards requesting new ones.

"This rumor is entirely unfounded," Commission Eynon said. "It is causing the bureau no end of trouble and brings needless worry to Pennsylvania motorists. There has been no counterfeiting of license cards. Every license received from the bureau of motor vehicles is a valid one. The rumor probably arose because of the two different style numbers appearing on 1931 operator's license cards. This was due to the installation of a new type numbering machine in the bureau.

"The new style numbers are of a plain machine block type, approximately three sixteenths of an inch in height and are stamped on the card in black ink. The hand stamped numbers are italic in style, three-sixteenths of an inch in height and are stamped on the operator's card in blue ink. The automatic machines did not have the capacity for numbering all the operator's licenses issued. Consequently there is in circulation operator's licenses with two different styles of numbers. Both were issued by the bureau of motor vehicles and both are legal."

Firpo Hopes To Beat Sam Bruce

Wants To Even Up With Bruce Who Slammed Him Last October

GRUVER TO MEET MARSHAL COUETTE

Sam Bruce has never battled in western Pennsylvania but he hopes to plant himself in the affection of fandom hereabouts when he meets Henry Firpo, elongated slugger of Louisville, in a 10-round punch duel at the Castle bowl Monday night.

The New York state athletic commission, according to Bruce's manager, has recognized Sam as a logical welterweight championship contender and arrangements are now being made to put Thompson and Bruce against each other for the title next month in Buffalo.

Bruce has defeated Tommy Kid Murphy, Canada Lee, Freddie Mueller, Mike Payan, Bobby Tracy, Jimmy Molette, Joe Trippe, stopped Pat Cunningham and dropped a close decision to Jackie Fields, former 147-pound champion, and also Thompson.

Firpo Wants Revenge.

This record alone should go a long way to show that the Buffalo star has something besides good intentions but there came to light yesterday a story which says that on October 25, Bruce met Firpo in their first fight and gave Henry a lacing. In fact Henry was on the floor, reports state.

When the other side of the fistic angle was discussed it met with a claim by Firpo's handlers that when he fought Bruce he was not in condition and that he signed for the second fight in the belief that he could give Bruce a drubbing in return for the "pasting" he received.

There is no question but that the elongated, bald-pated, hairy-chested Firpo has been performing consistently. One of his victims was Jack Dillon. Firpo knocked out the "rubber boy" and at present is a rage in southern rings.

Gruver to Box.

Local fans have not seen Henry for more than a year and it is a good bet that when he crawls through the ropes to fight Bruce he will be in excellent condition. He will have to be. Bruce, according to reports from other cities, carries plenty of "guns". His best punch is a right to the stomach. Among those who found this out was Bucky Lawless.

The semi-final shapes up well. Jimmy Thomas will fight either Pete Mazeo or some other good bantamweight. They're main bouters. The Pittsburgher hopes to win here as he has a match in the making with Willie Davies. They are scheduled to go six rounds.

Marshal Couette will not fight Buz Hardy. The Beaver Falls featherweight has been cast aside because he broke training and in his place will be Al Gruver, the sensational Akron kid, who fought Jackie Ward in the bowl recently. Gruver is a fighter and will weight 130 for Marshal.

Farrow vs Gruber.

This bout is scheduled to go four rounds. There will be two other abbreviated bouts. In one Ray Ritchie will meet Young DiMuccio and in the other Warren Farrow will take on Nick Gruber of Aliquippa. Nick is a rugged puncher. Warren likes to give and take.

Shenango Wins From Mt. Jackson

Brown Hurls Good Game As East New Castle Nine Topples Mt. Jackson

Aided by the effective pitching of Brown, the Shenango high school baseball team defeated the Mt. Jackson high aggregation on Friday afternoon at Mt. Jackson. The final score was 7-5.

Mt. Jackson tallied one run in the first inning and not until the sixth inning was Brown touched for enough hits to produce three runs. Shenango crossed the rubber in the first, second, fourth and sixth. The hitting of Brown and Rczesenik featured for Shenango while Seaton and Gilmore hit timely for Mt. Jackson.

Ball Yard Banter

Al Simmons, a holdout this last spring, is having trouble finding his batting eye. Chuck Klein, another ex-holdout, without any spring training, has been hitting the ball in great fashion. All of which doesn't prove anything in answer to the question: does holding out and consequent lack of spring practice delay a batter's rounding into usual form?

Meanwhile, St. Louis Cardinal fans are wondering and worrying whether Chick Hafey, prize Card holdout recently signed, will be an Al Simmons or a Chuck Klein in the early weeks of his return to work.

The fans may worry but not Chick. He is confident of his ability to start smacking the ball from the time he gets into uniform and keeping it up until October. He has even written his teammates to that effect. Chick believes his eyes (he wears glasses at bat) are stronger than ever.

"I can hit them," he insists. "On the coast this spring against good Coast league pitching I had no trouble seeing the ball and sending it on its way. If I don't lead the Cards in hitting this summer I'll be surprised."

* * *

With Taylor Douthit in a hitting slump the Red Birds have been very anxious to get Chick back into uniform. They need his war club if it can produce base hits as of yore. Chick's presence in the field will do much to strengthen the Cardinals' morale for the hard pennant fight still to be fought.

* * *

Douthit has been suffering from an ailing leg and weak eyes and his loss is considerable. Unless he improves greatly he may find his job taken over by Pepper Martin who is eager to win a regular berth with the champs.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

THE JACK SHARKEY-Primo Carnera scrap will first have a preliminary skirmish and it will be in federal court, as Madison Square Garden corporation has asked for a restraining order which if granted would prevent the fight.

THE corporation claims to hold a contract with Carnera to fight the winner of the Stribling-Schmeling bout and believes that if Jack were to beat Carnera it would seriously affect the gate receipts of the bout in which Carnera would appear against the Schmeling-Stribling bout winner.

HAPPENINGS IN WORLD OF SPORT

Athletics Are In Big Slump

Yankees Turn Back Macks 7 To 2 With Johnson Pitching

DODGERS DEFEAT PHILLIES 6 To 1

By COPELAND C. BURG
International News Service Sports Writer.

NEW YORK, May 1.—Those belittling persons who have been insisting the world champion Philadelphia Athletics stand on the threshold of one of the most complete flops in baseball history strutted about today with a conceit almost equal to that of a radio announcer.

Instead of terming Henry Johnson, the New York Yankee pitcher, a hero because he turned back the Macks 7 to 2 yesterday, they pointed out the complete collapse of the A's offensive in the eighth inning, with New York leading 4 to 2 and three Athletics on base. No one was out.

Weak Hitting.

Foxx, a great hitter, fanned; Bing Miller, wtih a record for breaking up ball games, fouled out; Jimmy Dykes, a good hitter, lifted a soft fly. Foxx fanned three times in all, the A's had eight men left on bases, turned six hits into two runs and only three of their players managed to clout safely at all.

The Brooklyn Robins defeated the Phillies 6 to 1. Fredericks homered wtih two on, behind passable hurling of Phelps.

Freddy Fitzsimmons pitched a two-hit game against the Boston Braves and got two hits that went over in a big way to win for the Giants, 2 to 1.

Comedy of Errors.

Chicago's White Sox defeated St. Louis 10 to 9 in 11 innings of errors. Seven errors marked the second inning, the Sox winning the honors with four. Reynolds scored the winning run.

Johnson and Alexander each got three hits in four times up as Detroit took one from Cleveland, 9 to 4. Hoyt was the winning hurler.

Meine gave the Cincy Reds only eight hits to triumph for Pittsburgh 8 to 3. Lloyd Waner bagged a homer.

Other teams were idle.

Scarazzos Ready To Open Season

Fourteen Players Have Signed Contracts To Play With South Side Nine

Although a short time remains until the Lawrence County baseball league opens, the Scarazzo baseball team of the South Side is ready for its opening contest against Hillsville, May 9.

Fourteen players have signed contracts to play with the Scarazzo aggregation. Manager Alec Black and Captain Peter Capitola state that they will present one of the strongest team in the league.

Those who have signed to play with the Scarazzos follow; Charles Scaglione, Wylie Shiek, Johnny Shields, Mike Turco, Johnny Coates, Carl Genock, Paul Fahey, Ernie Palus, Billy Hood, Mike Orlando, Harry James, Johnny Grinnen, Carmen Picarro, and Johnny Rodgers.

Bruce To Be Guest Of Dr. G. W. Garnet

Sam Bruce, Buffalo boxer who is scheduled to box Henry Firpo, Louisville, Monday night at the bowl will be the guest of Dr. G. W. Garnet while he is here. Bruce will arrive at 10 o'clock tonight. He will be accompanied by his manager, training partner and a Buffalo sports writer.

Bruce will work out at the bowl Saturday afternoon. Firpo will train at a different time also at the bowl.

ALL STAR NINE TOPS SLUGGERS

Pirates Defeat Cincinnati 8-3

Heine Meine Hurls Great Game As Pittsburgh Downs Red Birds

TRAYNOR HAS FOUR WALLOPS

FORBES FIELD, PITTSBURGH, May 1.—The Pittsburgh Pirates returned to the local ball orchard yesterday afternoon and produced an 8 to 3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds. Heine Meine on the knoll for the Corsairs hurled a steady game. Pie Traynor and Lloyd Waner furnished the swatting sensations.

Rixey, Kolp and Wysong did the pitching for the Reds and were found for nine hits by the Pirates, with Pie Traynor having four of the bingles.

Mickey Heath, Cincinnati first-sacker, suffered a broken arm in the fourth inning when he collided with Thevenow of the Pirates at first base. Heath was taken to a hospital. He will be out of the game for the remainder of the summer.

Student Prank Brings Reprimand

(International News Service)

ANN ARBOR, Mich., May 1—Three University of Michigan students were reprimanded and held overnight in jail as the result of a hoax in holding up a bridge party at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Gwinner here.

The youths, carrying out a fraternity house pledge, walked into the Gwinner home, their faces covered with black masks. The guests were terrorized for a moment but captured the youths. They were arrested and reprimanded by police chief Thomas O'Brien [illegible] refused to disclose their names.

Seven Amateurs Wearing Crowns

Seven New Amateur Champions Crowned In Boxing Tourney

WILL MAKE TOUR OF EUROPE SOON

By LES CONKLIN
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, May 1—Seven new amateur boxing champions were crowned early today following the conclusion of the four-day National A. A. U. title tourney at Madison Square Garden.

The seven new champions and Jack Pallet of Cleveland, who defended his heavyweight laurels successfully, were awarded gold belts and will be invited by the A. A. U. to tour Europe later this year for a series of tournaments with leading European amateurs.

New York City won the championship with fifteen points and Cleveland finished second with thirteen. These were the only others which produced two champions.

The twenty-two bouts fought in the semi-finals and finals last night produced only five knockouts. In practically every case there was no doubt about the result and an extra round was necessary in but one bout.

Pallet, the only defending champion, waded through the heavyweight group with east. In the final the rangy Clevland veteran scored a technical knockout over Earl Sather, Minneapolis, in one minute and 40 seconds of the first round. Sather was no match for the champion and was out on his feet before the fight had haraly started.

New Champions

NEW YORK, May 1—Following are the new A. A. U. boxing champions:

112 pound class—Babe Triscaro, Cleveland.

118 pound class—Joseph Ferrante, Boston.

126 pound class—Anthony Scarpati, New York.

135 pound class—Al Gomez, San Francisco.

147 pound class—Edward Flynn, New Orleans.

160 pound class—Frank Fullam, New York.

175 pound class—Antone Poloni, Reno, Nev.

Heavyweight class—Jack Pallet, Cleveland. (retains title)

Gold "Flake" To Be Memoralized

(International News Service)

SACRAMENTO, May 1—California pioneers are stickers for historical accuracy.

That's why the ponderous wheels of the legislature are moving to prove that a gold nugget is not a gold flake.

At the request of the Society of California Pioneers, Senator Timothy Treacy of San Francisco introduced a concurrent resolution which authorizes that the word "nugget" be changed to "flake" on the tablet of Jim Marshall's monument at Coloma.

It seems that Marshall picked up a flake of gold, worth about 50 cents and not a nugget, when he made his epochal discovery of gold on a fork of the American river in 1848.

So the pioneers insist that the tablet recounting this historical event be changed to read that it was a flake and not a nugget which sent the world tramping to California in the days of '49.

Badly Ironed Shirt Leads To Tragedy

(International News Service)

ORLEANS, France, May 1—A poorly-ironed shirt recently caused the death of three persons in this city, Louis Caton, his wife and sixteen-year-old daughter, Jeanne.

Monsieur Caton, a railroad employe, came home from work at noonday and started to clean up. Finding that his clean shirt had been badly ironed, he became infuriated, seized his revolver and shot his daughter to death.

Madame Caton then rushed to the scene and her enraged husband fired upon her too, killing her almost as quickly. Then he blew out his brains. Three other children survive.

Spying On Sports

by BILL RITT

By WILLIAM RITT
Central Press Sports Editor

About the sweetest spot a fighting man has ever been in is the one which you now see Tony Canzoneri occupying.

Possessed of two titles Tony can and will defend them on separate occasions and against different opponents. This means that before the New Orleans Italian returns to the ranks of dethroned fistic monarchs he will have pocketed two champions' shares of what should be considerable purses.

A situation such as this hasn't existed in ringdom for a long, long time and you can be certain that Tony Canzoneri will make the most of it. Tony isn't a spring chicken at the fight business. As a former featherweight champion he knows that titles only earn you money while you have them.

Business is already beginning to pick up for Tony.

There's the report that Jimmy Johnston, one-time manager of Phil Scott, the collapsed British heavyweight hope, is trying to promote a Canzoneri-Billy Petrolle fight for this summer in Brooklyn. This battle would be for Tony's lightweight crown.

And there's the report that Nate Lewis, Chicago promoter, is trying to arrange a scrap for Tony with Sammy Mandell, erstwhile lightweight monarch. This bout would be for Tony's junior welter diadem.

Tony's lightweight crown, though it gives his rulership over smaller men than his other title, is the big one of the two. Folks still don't take much stock in that junior welterweight championship. It's of too recent vintage. And it represents an inbetween group of boxers.

There was a 12-pound gap between the lighties and the welters so, in 1922, the National Boxing association created the junior welter class for 140 pounds, seven over the lights, five below the welters.

Though the crown has been in fairly good hands since its creation the fact that it was synthetic and not developed naturally has stood in the way of its popularity.

However, it should prove very useful to Canzoneri. He can defend it for considerable gate receipts as often as he wishes and at the same time protect his lightweight crown by facing such fellows as Mandell, who are over the lightie limit and therefore not menaces to the more important title.

The fact that he is lightweight champion (though at the time not defending that crown) ought to spur interest in Tony's junior welter defense battles.

Canzoneri faces about equal opposition to his title in the two classes. However, there appears to be no outstanding challenger in either weight at the present time.

Jack (Kid) Berg, the ex-junior welter champ, whom Tony whipped so decisively to win the championship, is about the best opposition he has in those ranks. Manuel Quintero, Tony Herrera, Mickey Cohen, Steve Hallako and Sammy Mandell rank next to Berg as "menaces."

In the lightweight division as potential challengers are Billy Petrolle, Justo Suarez, Ray Miller, Andy Callahan, Sammy Dorfman, Maxie Strub and Sammy Fuller.

Captain Hawks Is Back In London

American Flier Breakfasts In Dublin And Eats Dinner In London

(International News Service)

HESTON, London, May 1—Making good his promise to have lunch in London after breakfasting in Dublin, Captain Frank M. Hawks, American speed ace landed his bullet plane at Heston airdrome at 11:52 a. m. today.

Hawks hopped off from Baldonnell airfield near Dublin at 8:50 a. m. circled the Irish city as well as Belfast, Leeds and Manchester, and arrived here in exactly three hours and two minutes.

Yesterday he astonished Ireland by making a 365 mile tour of the Southern portion of the island in two hours. He made the flight from Heston to Baldonnell in 100 minutes flat, pausing only long enough to refuel before "sightseeing" over Erin's Isle.

Van Wie, Orcutt Succeed Because Of Easy Swings

By ROY GROVE
Central Press Golf Writer

NUMBER 11

The recent North and South tourney for women at Pinehurst, N. C., was a case of breaks, as golf goes, even though the contestants were women.

Won by Maureen Orcutt and nearly won by Virginia Van Wie gave the woman's place on the links a dangerous threat to the pros.

There is not more than three points difference between the great girl stars and the male professionals. Did you know that?

The greatest difference between the star woman golfer of today and the average golfing woman is a matter of ease and forced effort.

The average woman golfer tries to do all her work with the body and arms while her professional sister lets the stick do the work.

There is nothing in the finish of Maureen Orcutt's or Virginia Van Wie's swings to indicate that either would force her shots.

The ease of a finishing stroke indicates the player has taken the same case in getting back of the ball for the drive.

The woman who tightens every effort to get the club back will finish the same way.

The average woman golfer should try to swing the club rather than try to hit it with the motion of the body or the arms.

This can be overcome and developed into a good game by taking the swing as easily and smoothly as possible coming back and at the finish, with no hitting effort whatever at the point of contact.

The wrist action is the only punch needed when the time comes to send the ball down the fairway.

The woman golfer should try swinging rather than hitting if she hopes to develop her game in a season.

Paint Machinery To Prevent Accidents

(International News Service)

TOPEKA, Kan., May 1—In order to lessen the danger of collisions, the Kansas state highway commission is having all of its road grading and maintenance machinery painted a shiny aluminum color.

While members of the commission can see no reason for motoritsts running into the machines, as they are never left on the highway after working hours, several accidents occurred last year. Several workmen were injured in the accidents, all of which happened during the working hours.

In the eighteen and a half centuries that have elapsed, since the death of St. Peter, the first bishop of Rome, 262 popes have reigned in the Eternal City.

NEW YORK STOCKS

Higher Price Levels In Today's Market

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 1.—Thursday's closing rally in the speculative favorites was carried into the early trading today and many of the leaders pushed ahead to higher price levels. The Rails made the best showing in this period, with new gains of 1 to 2½ points in Baltimore and Ohio, Atchison, Union Pacific etc., and fractional rallies in New York Central and Pennsylvania. After the first bulge in the industrials profit taking set in, and the price peaks of the first half-hour were levelled off.

Bethlehem Steel's new 2-point rise to 45¼, a gain of 6 points, was a feature of the popular industrials. Standard Oil of New Jersey today ordered the payment to stockholders of the usual 25-cent extra dividend on the common stock, in addition to the regular payment of 25 cents a share. The stock pushed ahead fractionally to 37⅞. Auburn Auto went on another rampage in an 11-point jump to 224.

STOLEN AUTO IS LOCATED TODAY

Walter Mabb of 15 East North street, reported to the police last night that he had his car parked at 71 County Line street, when it was stolen by some unknown person. Boy Hero Guest of President

Pictured in what is perhaps the proudest moment of his life, Bryan Untiedt, thirteen-year-old hero of the bus tragedy in Colorado in which five children lost their lives, is shown as he entered the White House to be President Hoover's guest for a few days. The lad journeyed from his home in Lamar, Col., and was met at the station by a car from the White House. He expects to take back some pictorial records of his visit, as he brought his trusty little camera along.

Millionaire Poetess

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick

Mrs. Edith Rockefeller McCormick, daughter of John D. Rockefeller, oil king, and Chicago's reigning society matron, has just been acclaimed a poetess and her verse printed and set to music by Mrs. Eleanor Everest Freer. The verses are called "Love Song Cycle," and critics see potential art, sincerity and value in them

Back to Kid

Marking a backward swing of the style pendulum, the above photo shows the return of my lady's fickle fancy to the conservative kid oxford. Last year's craze for snake, lizard and other strange skins has gone into the discard and Hollywood has revived the old style. The shoe above is a smart black kid, a conservative note particularly effective with dark suits of fashionable lightweight wool.

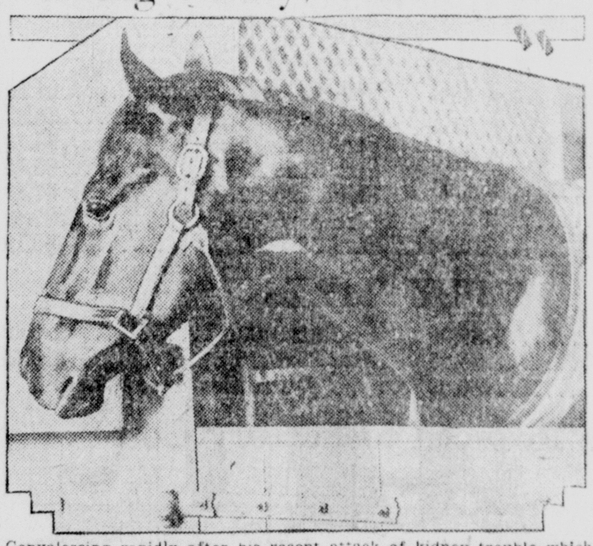
In Training for Derby

Here is Ormesby, Bellair Stud three-year-old, selected to carry the silks of William Woodward in the Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs, May 16. He was sired by Sir Galahad III, whose son, Gallant Fox, won last year's classic.

"Killer" Burke Takes a Ride

Manacled to detectives, the notorious Fred "Killer" Burke is pictured as he left the St. Joseph, Mich., county jail for the start of his journey to Marquette Prison. Burke was sentenced to life imprisonment for the slaying of Patrolman Skelly of Michigan. Note how the "Killer" bears down hard on his cigar in an attempt at nonchalance.

Doing Nicely, Thank You



Convalescing rapidly after his recent attack of kidney trouble which caused so much concern, C. V. (Senny) Whitney's great horse Equipoise, showed so much improvement at Havre-de Grace that his trainer, Freddie Hopkins announced that the horse would be shipped to Pimlico to prepare for the Kentucky Derby in which his chances look more than rosy. Above is the most recent photo of the Derby favorite.

Back From Travels

Mrs. Grace Thompson Seton (above) American author, explorer and sociologist, has just returned to San Francisco following a world survey of feminine movements, and a scientific expedition which led her into the jungles of French Indo China. She is president of the National League of American Penwomen.

Seeks New Fields

Commander Donald B. McMillan (above) veteran explorer, will turn to aircraft to aid him in his next expedition, a proposed round trip flight over the Atlantic Ocean and into unexplored Arctic regions. Charles F. Pocheville will act as pilot on the trip which will start June 21, from Boston, Mass.

NONSENSE

The Decision

The court held with Feeker.

The judges reasoned thus:

While the owner might by observation note the state of the main walls and see whether they did not need repairs, he could not so observe the main timbers and the roof. And to enter the buildings on occasion might be misconstrued as trespass. Notice was clearly needed and Jergins failed to give it.

WORLD WIDE GUILD

The Senior World Wide Guild of the First Baptist church will be entertained next Monday evening at the home of Mrs. S. W. Freed, 630 South Ray street, with Mrs. Harry Barkby and Mrs. C. L. Martin as associate hostesses.

A group of forty-five guests assembled in the Ray home on Hillcrest avenue Saturday evening, and were in hiding when Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Ray arrived home from town, to tender the latter a party in celebration of her birth anniversary, which proved a complete surprise.

Big Double Attraction At The Penn All This Week Featuring Anniversary Month

Marlene Dietrich and Victor McLaglen, Star of "The Cock-Eyed World," In "Dishonored"; Also Bobby Jones In His First Screen Golf Lesson.

MARLENE DIETRICH and VICTOR McLAGLEN

The new thrill of the screen, Marlene Dietrich, beautiful, clever—a new motion picture star, sweeping the country like wild-fire, in "Dishonored"—a story of the cunning—daring and charm of one woman pitted against a horde of scheming men.

Marlene Dietrich is the new craze—like a comet she burst on America in "Morocco" to create more interest and discussion than has any other actress in the past decade; she soared to new heights in "The Blue Angel." Now, backed by an assured public interest and supported by all the resources of the Paramount studio, she bursts into real fame in this new picture.

Co-starred with the popular Victor McLaglen—Dietrich is here cast with a male star whose roistering portrayals in "What Price Glory?", "The Cock-Eyed World" and a score of other successful and outstanding pictures have made him one of the leading leading-men of the screen. And, in "Dishonored," he has a role similar in character to those which won him fame—a reckless, mocking young officer playing dangerously at love.

A special added feature—Play Golf! Improve your game by seeing—Bobby Jones, in his first screen golf lesson, "How To Putt" with Joe E. Brown and Richard Barthelmess. This feature should interest every golf fan in New Castle.
